747 Sets Pole-To-Pole Round-The-World Record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Boeing 747 set a new record for its class of jet Sunday by flying around the world, over both the North and South poles, in 54 hours, 7 minutes and 12 seconds.

The 26,706-mile flight marked the 50th anniversary of Pan American World Airways.

On board were 169 passengers. Those in first-class seats had paid $3,333 each, while those in "economy" paid $2,222.

The old record of 62 hours, 27 minutes and 35 seconds was set by a TWA cargo jet in 1965.

The Pan Am jet can make hops of more than 7,000 miles before refueling. Its route was from San Francisco to London via the North Pole, then to Cape Town, South Africa, and over the South Pole to Auckland, New Zealand, and back to California.

The jetliner, named Clipper New Horizons, was the same plane that set a record for going around the world via the Tropic of Cancer in May 1976. It was designed for lower weight and longer range and is 47 feet shorter than the standard 747.

"When we first advertised the anniversary flight I couldn't imagine who would want to make a trip like that," said Pan Am spokesman Bill Marsh. "But I was wrong. The thing sold out within five days."

Karl Macklin, 65, of Delray Beach, Fla., said he and his wife took the flight "because I'm getting pretty gush-danged old and there's a lot of this world I want to see before I die."

In-flight entertainment included 12 movies, a fashion show, special ceremonies over each pole, a Maori dancing display, a strolling musician and a magician.

Pan Am's first flight on Oct. 28, 1927, was a 90-mile mail run from Key West, Fla., to Havana, Cuba.

RECORD FLIGHT PILOT: Captain Walter Mullikin says goodbye to Sheldon MacLeod, travel agent from Cleveland, Ohio, after they completed around world flight together. Pan Am flight took 54 hours, 7 minutes and 12 seconds which is new world record. Old record was 62 hours, 27 minutes, and 35 seconds, which was set by TWA cargo jet in 1965. (AP Wirephoto)

Zerilli's Power Spanned 50 Years Detroit Mafia 'King' Dies

GROSSE POINTE, Mich. (AP) — Reputed Mafia leader Joseph "Mr. Joe" Zerilli, whose power in the Detroit underworld spanned half a century, is dead at the age of 79.

Zerilli died at Bon Secours Hospital Sunday at 8:15 p.m., hospital officials in this posh Detroit suburb reported. The man identified eight years ago by the U.S. Justice Department as the Detroit mob's "Capo de capo" — boss of the bosses — was admitted to the hospital Oct. 10. Cause of death was listed as congestive heart failure.

One assessment of Zerilli's power in 1965 before a U.S. Senate subcommittee placed him on the ruling council of a Detroit-based criminal enterprise that grossed $150 million a year from loan-sharking, gambling and other illegal activities.

His $500,000, 20-acre estate in the Detroit suburb of Sterling Heights has a private half-mile racetrack and a stable filled with thoroughbred horses.

Law enforcement officials say they do not expect Zerilli's death to trigger a violent power struggle for control of organized crime in Detroit.

Investigators from five law enforcement agencies in Michigan said they believe the transition in leadership will be orderly with several crime figures holding the authority once held by Zerilli. Zerilli's son, Anthony, is expected to be involved in the new hierarchy as he has been in the past, law enforcement officials said. The younger Zerilli is serving a four-year prison term in the federal penitentiary in Sandstone, Minn., for conspiring to obtain a hidden interest in a Las Vegas casino.

The elder Zerilli was called the boss of the Detroit Mafia, a title he once declined, remarking, "I'm no racketeer, no gangster ... I am a businessman."

Zerilli prospered, although it described Zerilli before a U.S. Senate subcommittee as one of five "dons" on the ruling council of the Mafia in Detroit. The four others died or retired in the late 1960s and early 1970s. Zerilli himself came out of Zerilli was only convicted once. In 1919, he was fined $500 for carrying a concealed weapon.

Zerilli's name came up early in the federal probe into the disappearance of ex-Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa. Within hours of the time Hoffa vanished on July 30, 1975, investigators said if the Mafia had anything to do with Hoffa's disappearance, Zerilli would know about it. Zerilli's son was called before the Hoffa grand jury, but there have been no indictments and the case is still unsolved.

'I Am No Racketeer, I'm A Businessman'

is not clear how. He climbed to power in Prohibition-era gangster days, surfacing in 1920 as owner of a mail company. He held an interest in a baking company for more than 40 years. In 1933, the federal government contended publicly that Zerilli had unidentified bank accounts of $108,142.

The full extent of his power was publicly recognized in 1963, when then-Detroit Police Commissioner George Edwards semi-retirement in 1975 when his son began serving his prison term.

The last time Zerilli was arrested was in 1911. That arrest was in connection with a gangland slaying. The case collapsed, however, and Zerilli was not charged. Police said that slaying of Chester LaMure, head of a rival west side gang of beer barons, insured the dominance of an east side gang with which Zerilli was allied.

Abortion Funding Agreement Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate members are trying once more to reach a compromise on the abortion policy that will regulate the government's health service programs for the poor during the next year.

But congressional leaders say that even if House-Senate conferees do not succeed by their self-imposed deadline of midnight tonight, the dispute is unlikely to jeopardize paychecks for government employees whose agencies' funds are tied to the question.

The conferees planned to meet today to discuss the last remaining obstacle delaying passage of a $60.2 billion appropriations bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and some smaller, related agencies.

The conferees have tried without success to agree on an abortion policy since July. The proposal that Congress approves will affect programs like Medicaid and social services until Sept. 30, 1978.

Should they fail again today, they probably will ask Congress to pass and the President to sign a second resolution ensuring that the agencies have operating money while the debate goes on. Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., who heads the Senate conferees, said "the chances are good" that a continuing resolution will go through if no agreement is reached.

But he noted, "I want to get this done if I can on Monday." Congress passed the first resolution on Oct. 13 to silence the protests of about 240,000 federal employees whose paychecks were threatened.

The conferees have had no formal meetings since then, but members and their aides have worked informally. If Congress does not pass a second resolution, congressional aides say most affected employees will be paid until Nov. 10.

The agencies would be forced to curtail administrative spending, but the government would continue making payments for welfare, unemployment insurance and other social services indefinitely.

The only public action taken by the conferees until now was a 59-33 vote by the Senate last week to reject the latest House proposal.

Lawmakers' 'Treat' Is Neat Trick

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — If anyone is taking care of the state's legislative business tonight, it'll have to be the ghosts and goblins. State lawmakers treated themselves to a day off.

The regular Monday night session for the House and Senate was called off late last week, ostensibly so the lawmakers could spend Halloween night with their families.

Although not an official holiday, the legislators didn't decide to dock themselves a day's pay from their $22,500 annual salaries. They decided they had been good and deserved a treat.

STRIKE CLOSES PORT
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Workers closed Israel's largest port today in a 24-hour protest against the government's move from socialism toward capitalism.

The House proposal would have permitted abortion funding where a woman's life would be jeopardized by a full-term pregnancy, the same provision that was written into law last year and is still in effect because of the resolution.

The House language also would allow payments for prompt treatment of rape and incest victims who report the incidents to police.

The Senate vote reinforced its earlier position, which also would permit abortion payments in cases where a woman's life would be jeopardized by a full-term pregnancy.

It goes further, however, by allowing payments in cases of rape or incest or where the woman or fetus would suffer "serious health damage."

Many House members have objected to that last phrase, describing it as a loophole that would permit abortions under almost any circumstances.

Jet Fan Doesn't Give Up

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Albert Abrams of Lansing, Mich., who planned to travel in the world-circling Pan American Boeing 747SP but missed the plane in San Francisco, caught up with the flight in Auckland Monday morning.

Abrams, 58, who describes himself as a "naviation nut" was a passenger in the airline's first record-breaking global SP service last year.

Unable to fly from Lansing to San Francisco because of bad weather, Abrams drove to another town and joined another flight which, however, arrived in San Francisco just as the round-the-world flight was taking off.

The airline staff advised him against joining the flight in London because there was not enough time and said the Cape Town connection was out of the question. An Auckland connection was possible, they said.

Cooling Arms Race Spawns Odd Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Should the United States swap about a million Americans for an equal number of Russians, with each group serving as hostages in the other's cities?

How about exchanging U.S. and Soviet leaders and using them as hostages so that "neither side would attack the other for fear of killing its own leading citizens?"

These suggestions were among those offered by people responding to an unusual advertisement for ideas on stopping the nuclear weapons race. The ad was placed by a Pennsylvania political science professor working temporarily at the Pentagon.

Dr. Martin Goldstein, who holds the temporary title of assistant to the deputy director for negotiations and arms control, said he drafted the appeal in an effort to generate "a fresh source of ideas" on ways to stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

Widener College in Chester, Pa., now at the Pentagon on a fellowship.

"I decided that one way was to put notices in a couple of professional journals. It wouldn't cost the government anything. So last February and March, I put notices in the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists and in PS, journal of the political science community."

A career bureaucrat would be unlikely to do anything like that. But Goldstein said he regards himself as a kind of free soul — "I'm outside the government system, so I could do something like this."

As a result, Goldstein said, he received about 25 written replies ranging from the bizarre to the practical, a number of them accompanied by extensive discussions.

"Some came from fantastic crackpots," Goldstein said. "But there are some from very knowledgeable people."

He has digested and summarized some of the ideas he received and plans to forward them to David McGifford, assistant defense secretary for international security affairs.

Some of the other suggestions offered: —"Arouse public awareness of the dangers of nuclear weapons proliferation ... by taking rash actions that will reawaken the public's horror of nuclear war. Such actions might include removal of atmospheric (test) shots, so scheduled as to be tourist attractions."

—"Press the World Bank and other such lending institutions to deny credit to those nations that acquire nuclear weapons."

—"Decrease the number of nuclear warheads in national arsenals by substituting a certain number of 'dud' warheads on actual missiles. Since the enemy won't know which warheads are duds, a nation could have the same deterrent with a reduced number of live warheads."

Still others offered ideas on prohibiting production or shipment of nuclear weapons materials, shutting existing nuclear power plants and strengthening international inspection and enforcement powers.

Seminar Has Lure: M-o-n-e-y

DETROIT (AP) — About 170 parents and teachers turned out for parent-teacher day at Northwestern High School. It's possible they really wanted to meet each other. It's also possible they wanted to pick up some cash.

Parents were offered $15, teachers, $30, to participate. The money came from a special federal grant for the money day.

Invitations offering the cash bonus were sent to the parents of all 3,000 students.

Those who came heard several speakers, conferred with their children's teachers, toured the building and watched a program staged by the school's drama and music departments.

BH Mayor Patterson Needs Bolin And Wells

Mayor Joel Patterson has managed to restore some dignity and credibility to a Benton Harbor city commission that was rife with dissension, animosity and strange policies under his predecessor.

To keep Benton Harbor headed in the right direction, Mayor Patterson needs help. And two people who have been giving him help are City Commissioners Arnold Bolin and Mildred Wells.

Now the Rev. Bolin and Mrs. Wells are facing an election for new terms. A large turnout of voters to return them to office would be the best assurance Mayor Patterson could have that his efforts are not only appreciated, but also likely to produce beneficial long range results.

Rev. Bolin and Mrs. Wells are being challenged for their commissioner-at-large posts by Mrs. Audrey Reed and Carl L. Brown, a former city commissioner. Neither of the latter two is well suited for the city commission.

When Brown was a city commissioner, he was involved continually in acrimonious debates and name calling. He's a shouter but not a doer.

Mrs. Reed has two conflicts of interest that should bar her from a commission seat. Her husband, Leonard, has a contract with the city to do plumbing inspections. And her son, Stephen A. Reed, is head of Rampart Ambulance, a firm that wants to do business with the city.

Rev. Bolin has proved an able lieutenant for Mayor Patterson in promoting new industry and charting improvement projects. Mrs. Wells has been a sympathetic supporter, a voice for courtesy and decency in relations among people of the city.

Voters of Benton Harbor should serve notice they want peace and progress by giving Commissioners Bolin and Wells a big margin of victory in the Tuesday, Nov. 8th city election.

Sixtieth Anniversary Of October Revolution

Americans tend to think of the Soviet Union as a very old country whose history extends back hundreds of years into Czarist times. St. Basil's Cathedral, that familiar landmark in Moscow's Red Square, was built in the 16th century. And among the Czarist treasures on view inside the Kremlin is the ivory throne used by Ivan the Terrible.

International But Not No. 1

English has become the unofficial universal language, not because of any concerted attempt to make it so but simply because of the wide-ranging interests English-speaking peoples have throughout the world.

World War II, in particular, was responsible for the spread of English to many French, Spanish and German-speaking peoples in Europe and to Japan and other spots in Asia. Wide-ranging business and cultural interests in more recent years expanded familiarity with and use of English.

But if language popularity is the mark of universality, it is Mandarin Chinese, not English, which deserves the world title. According to the Guinness Book of Records, Mandarin is spoken by almost twice as many people as English, which ranks second.

As far as some aspects of world diplomacy are concerned, the world's leaders might as well be speaking in Mandarin, but for the balance of world discourse, Guinness notwithstanding, English will do nicely.

Just What Is The Ultimate Aim?

Nation's Northern Cities Battle Industry Flight

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
AP Urban Affairs Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — After 43 years in tiny Garrettsville, Ohio, the Polson Rubber Co. announced it was stopping production, ripping out the equipment and shipping the guts of its operation to Tennessee.

"The effect was traumatic," says Polson vice president Paul Diehl, who stayed behind to run the sales operation. "It put a lot of people out of work and wreaked havoc on our tax base."

Garrettsville lost about 40 percent of its tax base when the 400 workers lost their jobs.

"I've got no idea of the destiny of our workforce," Diehl said. "I'm sure some of them found jobs, and some of them are still looking."

Faced with incidents such as Polson and the nearby closing of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube

Co. plant in Struthers, Ohio, there is a campaign in Congress and among some local officials to regulate plant relocation to cushion the impact on workers and the community.

Proponents of regulation hope to minimize the damage to a community and its workers when a company moves a production site.

In Ohio, the Conference of Alternative State and Local Public Policies, a group of public officials, is calling for state legislation that would require companies to pay severance benefits for workers lured by a plant movement.

A bill introduced in the Ohio General Assembly last summer would require benefits equal to one week's pay for every year an employee has worked for a company.

The bill also would require that 10 percent of the gross annual wages of affected employees be paid by the company into a state fund for redevelopment of the affected community.

Legislation introduced in Congress by Rep. William Ford, D-Mich., would require two years' notice before relocating a plant. In that time, company executives would work with government officials to determine if there is actually a need for the relocation and whether federal help to the company might make such a move unnecessary.

If a company refused to give notice, or refused to follow through on efforts to seek an alternative, the legislation would cut the firm off from a variety of federal assistance, such as job-training aid at the new site and certain federal tax breaks.

Consideration of the bill is likely next year, Ford says.

David Shapiro of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, says business leaders oppose proposals to regulate plant relocation, explaining, "Efforts like this simply interfere with management's ability to make business judgments."

"It restricts industrial mobility," Shapiro said. "We'd be against it out of hand."

Industrial mobility these days sometimes means moving out of the country, a decision which also has tremendous impact on communities and their residents.

In Watsontown, Pa., Zenith Radio Corp. is eliminating more than half the jobs in its TV plant and shifting production to Taiwan and Mexico. Townspeople fear the plant will close altogether.

AFL-CIO analyst Elizabeth Jager says: "The evidence is pretty clear that U.S. tax and trade policies tend to encourage the movement of plants, here and abroad. There is a definite policy to move out American industry."

She cited tax and trade policies designed to aid Third World companies in trading with the United States.

The Bureaucratic 'Frankenstein'

WASHINGTON — Howard Scharf is a man with an unusual problem: If he does his job too well, he's in danger of embarrassing his boss — and possibly losing his job.

Scharf's title is director of the investigations and inspections staff of the Economic Development Administration, a unit of the Commerce Department that currently is doing out more than $6 billion worth of federal public works grants to 12,000 state and local governments.

Scharf's staff is responsible for insuring that there is no fraud or abuse in a program that's very big, even by government standards. But he must report directly to the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Economic Development — the man who runs the program.

That inherent conflict was cited at a congressional hearing earlier this year, and Scharf offered a surprisingly candid reply to a pointed question on the subject.

Q. Aren't you in a position where the better job you do, the more embarrassing it may be for your boss?

A. The better job I do, the better chance I have of working myself out of a job.

That situation, unfortunately, is typical of the problems faced by many of the inspectors, audit and investigation specialists assigned by federal departments and agencies to reduce, if not eliminate, waste and mismanagement of the public's money.

Limited authority, overlapping responsibility, poor coordination, inadequate staff, underfunded budgets and a host of other impediments were documented in hearings conducted by a subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee chaired by Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C.

Fountain's subcommittee produced a bill that would establish an inspector general's office at all major government departments and agencies. But that approach has been stymied by unwarranted opposition all the way from the depths of the bureaucracy to the highest levels in the White House.

If Congress can surmount that hostility, the House bill situation that makes federal spending susceptible to fraud.

Under the current system, for example, auditors and investigators report to different officials at different agencies and departments — and often, as in Scharf's case, the boss is the person in charge of the programs being investigated.

At the Department of Transportation, oversight authority is fragmented, among no fewer than 116 different units — 11 conducting internal audits, 78 responsible for outside audits, and 29 separate investigative units.

With few exceptions, audit and investigative staffs lack both the money and manpower to initiate affirmative probes of programs to search out fraud and abuse. "We're ordinarily on reacting to complaint-type situations," an official of the Veterans Administration confessed to the House subcommittee.

Officials of the Departments of Interior and Transportation acknowledged that some of their activities have never been audited. In other cases, departmental representatives said it would take from 10 to 20 years to complete a full cycle of audits of each of their programs. Trained criminal investigators and 13 program analysts in check for fraud and abuse in $25 billion worth of activities, including the vast unemployment compensation program.

The House bill would provide the mechanism to control an unmanageable situation vividly described by Fountain: "Government has gotten so big, the agencies so big... we have a Frankenstein on our hands, we have a train running away without an engineer."

President Did The Right Thing

WASHINGTON — Sen. Hubert Humphrey is the most politically competent man in modern history never to make it to the White House.

For more than three decades he has been a major liberal Democratic force, shaping and influencing more national decisions and policies than any other man not president. He has been a public person, sharing without reserve his energy, his dreams, his extravagant political genius. And now, finally he is sharing with considerable grace his dying as well.

President Carter's symbolic gesture in bringing Humphrey home — and the Senate is as much Humphrey's home as Minnesota — was an inspired move.

It was inspired because it was politically useful — Carter could use some rub-off from Humphrey's popularity right now. There have been times when Humphrey wasn't so well-liked. The cruel truth, after all, is that he was defeated by Richard Nixon in a classic example of evil triumphing over good. But since his illness removed him from active competition everyone has suddenly realized what a very special person he has been all along.

There may seem to be a contradiction between those two motives, one selfish and one noble. But politics, shaped to mirror life itself, is a complex art.

The president did the right thing to ask if he could make Humphrey's return to the capital easier than traveling alone (and prolonging his stay in California with an unplanned overnight to do so). And Humphrey did the right thing to accept, although he no doubt understood the public relations aspect.

Humphrey has never been one to bear grudges, and although Carter was mean-spirited toward him during the 1976 presidential campaign, he chose to put the general interpretation on the offer instead of the cynical one.

The outpouring of affection for Humphrey in the past months since his cancer was discovered has been bittersweet. This country tends to honor people as statesmen only after they are dead; while they are alive, they are still considered politicians and somewhat suspect. The circumstances of Humphrey's illness, however, make it possible to demonstrate fondness and appreciation for him while he is still around to enjoy it.

Humphrey grew up in the Depression, and the experience left him with an abiding faith in the people of this nation and what their government could and should do for them. If at times he didn't always worry about the cost of programs, it was because he felt the people's needs must come first.

The power that runs with a sense of the future passed from him when Jimmy Carter was elected president. But he remained, as health permitted, an active political force, advising Carter, envisioning new ways of shaping government to help those who cannot help themselves, inspiring others with his compassion and courage.

Carter was not exaggerating when he said he needed Humphrey back in the Senate. If he had just left Humphrey's legislative instinct, he wouldn't be in such political trouble today.

AREA POLICE ROUNDUP

'Stolen' List Long One

A real crook may have stolen a rifle used in a mock bank robbery during Lake Michigan College law enforcement training over the weekend.

James Birner, a military police officer with the Army Reserve, told Benton Township police Sunday that his .22 caliber semi-automatic rifle, used in the exercise on Saturday, was missing and believed stolen. Birner, of 521 Division, Bangor, said the rifle disappeared while he was on the LMC campus Saturday.

Township Patrolman Gary Ruhl said the rifle was used as a prop in the mock robbery and was the personal property of Birner. The rifle was valued at $125, Ruhl reported.

Benton Township police said Sunday they were continuing to investigate the reported theft of $267 from money bags in a service station office.

Patrolman Gary Ruhl reported Sunday, Clifford Calhoun, manager of Napier Arco Service, Napier Avenue and I-94, told officers the money had been discovered missing Sunday afternoon. Calhoun said he investigated and found the cash gone but all five of the station money bags accounted for, Ruhl reported.

Burglars who entered the Main Street Market, 440 E. Main St., Benton Harbor, early Saturday may have returned early Sunday, according to city police.

Patrolman Lloyd Hughes reported that at 12:35 a.m. Saturday the store had been entered apparently through a window. Packaged items were strewn about the floor and an undetermined quantity of cigarettes and chewing tobacco was stolen, Hughes said.

Patrolman Dale Easton said he was on routine patrol at 4:18 a.m. Sunday when he noticed a board covering removed from the same window. Apparently entry was not gained at that time, however, Easton said.

Officers said the window was boarded up after the entry Saturday and again Sunday.

Benton Harbor police said a Benton Township man was treated and released from Mercy Hospital after allegedly being cut by a knife inside the Brooklyn tavern, 379 Territorial Road, shortly before midnight Saturday.

Police said Reginald Gill, 44, of 207 Madeline Ave. reported being cut by an unknown assailant while trying to walk out as a fight among other people began. Gill reported he continued outside where a friend observed blood. Police said 20 stitches were used to close a wound to the neck. Police were notified by Mercy Hospital at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

Lincoln Township Patrolman Ross Spencer reported that Jeff A. ## Windshield Is Smashed By Pumpkin

Benton Township police reported Sunday an out-of-state motorist told them her windshield was smashed by a pumpkin thrown off an I-94 overpass at about 9:15 p.m.

Sister Ruthann Reed, of Racine Wis., whom officers identified as a Catholic nun, reported she was westbound on the freeway when the pumpkin struck the windshield of the 1972 Chevrolet Monte Carlo she was driving.

Patrolman Gary Ruhl said he investigated the report and found a number of smashed pumpkins beneath the Empire Avenue overpass in the area where the incident was believed to have occurred.

Man Held In Benton Fire Investigation

Benton Township police said Sunday morning they booked a man for investigation of an arson charge after car fire on the 700 block of Dixie Drive.

Sgt. Roger Peters reported Willie Ware, 43, who gave a Chicago address, was arrested after police received a report that a man was setting fire to an auto and a house on Dixie Drive at 2 a.m. Sunday.

Peters said officers found a 1970 Pontiac engulfed in flames and a small fire burning in leaves near the home of Lacey Delaney, 711 Dixie, and also noticed the presence of gasoline fumes in the area.

Lacey Delaney, her two children and a second woman inside the house when the fires began escaped without injury, according to Peters, and township firemen aided by police extinguished the flames.

Peters said officers were unable to locate a man wanted for questioning in connection with the fires until a second tip was received later in the morning that a man had been seen entering the then unoccupied Delaney home.

Ware was apprehended, according to Peters, when officers stopped an auto soon leaving the Dixie Drive area shortly after the tip was received.

Ware, who gave police a Chicago address but said he is employed in Benton Harbor, was lodged in the Berrien County Jail, Peters said.

Damage to the Delaney home and auto was estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000, Peters said.

American Themes
In Exhibition

GRAND RAPIDS — Grand Rapids Art Museum is showing through Nov. 30 the exhibition "Themes in American Painting," considered by its curator as the most significant art event in that city since the unveiling of the Calder stabile.

Because of its scope and organization, the exhibition offers viewers an exceptional vantage point from which to survey 200 years of American art, according to Dr. J. Gray Sweeney, guest curator.

Dr. Sweeney, assistant professor of art history at Grand Valley State College, conceived and organized the exhibit of 103 paintings which features such American masters as Cole, Church, Bierstadt, Ryder, Hopper and O'Keeffe.

Financial assistance for the preparation of the exhibition was provided by the National Endowment for the Arts, Michigan Council for the Arts, Michigan Foundation for the Arts, Grand Valley State College, Grand Rapids Foundation and others.

Museums, institutions and private collectors from all over the country have sent major works to Grand Rapids for the exhibition. Two years of planning and preparation for the show have made possible the loan of many national treasures.

Dr. Sweeney said the paintings are displayed in thematic groups and follow a chronological order within each group. The development of American art can thus be traced through each of seven themes which explore the relationship of nature and civilization in America.

The seven themes are: Pioneers and Progress, The Wilderness and Nature, The Agrarian Paradise, The Artist, The Metropolitan Image, Art Between the Wars, and Recent American Art.

Dr. Sweeney has prepared a 220-page catalogue accompanying the exhibition. It explains the themes in detail, and specifically relates each painting to the show are illustrated.

Food Prices To Remain Stable

As we head into the holiday season, it's nice to know that most food prices will remain stable for the rest of the year, says Maryann Beckman, District Extension, Consumer Marketing Information Agent. Bountiful crops should keep the lid on prices for some months to come.

Mrs. Beckman added: Individual prices naturally will change, due to seasons, supply of individual foods, etc., but the major overall price increase for the year is already behind us. Knowing what is expected for the months ahead can help you do a better job of food buying to save money on food and provide more for those other holiday goodies ahead.

Total red meat supplies will rise seasonally this fall but may not match their record high of a year earlier. Consumer demand for pork appears to be favorable now so look for more specials this month. Though beef supplies may be decreasing and prices are up some, no major price increases are foreseen for the rest of the year. Choosing the weekly advertised cuts will give you the most for your money.

Broiler production is expected to continue above last year for the rest of 1977 and into 1978 so there will be no scarcity of these tasty birds. Prices are below first half of the year levels.

The second largest turkey crop of record is expected for 1977. However, prices are expected to remain strong, at higher than 1976 levels. You will continue to see lots of store specials before both Thanksgiving and Christmas though, so take advantage of them and buy for present as well as future use.

The nation's hens are doing their best to keep production up, for supplies were up one per cent in September. Consumers aren't keeping pace so egg prices are currently about eight cents a dozen below a year ago. A lot of young birds will reach peak production in the next few months so prices should remain attractive to consumers.

Figures recently released by the USDA show that total per capita consumption of fruit and vegetables is at its highest level in 30 years. Most of the gains go to apples, avocados and bananas and fresh sweet corn, tomatoes and lettuce. Large quantities of apples are available at low prices and quality is excellent. Banana retails are unchanged.

November is one of those rare months when all four of the most popular varieties (Hans, Fuertes, Zutano and Jaina) of avocados will be available. Most will be coming from California.

Primarily from the East will come the cranberry crop, which is 10 per cent below last year's large crop, but five per cent above 1975. Though rains have delayed harvest, there will be plenty for all. This crop is only in season from October to mid-January so "squirrel away" a few extra bags then for later mid-winter eating.

The year's end of the fruit season brings the beginning of the heavy citrus harvest. California Valencia oranges are now being replaced with Florida varieties. Early varieties of tangerines and tangelos are here with peak volume appearing by mid-month. Grapefruit are now more abundant and prices are down.

Broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, squash, turnips and rutabagas are all star vegetable choices for the month. It is peak month for turnips and rutabagas; prices are down. Broccoli matured early this year so quantity available will be smaller than usual by mid-month. Price fluctuations on lettuce in October were caused by variations in supply as growing areas shifted. California, Arizona and New Mexico are all shipping now.

Retail prices for processed fruits and vegetables are expected to continue to rise this fall, due to higher costs of producing, processing and marketing. There will be adequate to ample supplies of most items so look to special sales to stock the larder.

Prices for bakery and cereal products are holding steady, even though marketing and distribution costs are up. Large supplies and low prices for grains and other major ingredients are keeping prices from going up more.

Coffee prices will continue to go down, but not as fast as they went up last winter.

Bird Feeding Time

Start a couple of months ahead of time and save grease from cooking in use for feeding the birds in the winter.

Pour the grease in a large jar and store in the freezer. Then, when winter comes, mix it with crumbs from stale bread, cereal, etc. Or, it can be used to mix with purchased wild bird food, to make the food go further.

Once you begin to put food out for birds, you must continue to do so all winter as they come to depend on it. Always put water out for the birds with the food.

College Grads Earn More

NEW YORK, N.Y. — With rising tuition costs, tax-driving Ph.D.s and a narrowing income gap between high school and college grads, it has become fashionable to ask, "Who needs college?"

The answer may very well be "You," according to November's "Seventeen" magazine.

Despite the keen competition for some jobs, brought on by a 91 percent increase in the number of people receiving bachelor degrees since the 1950s, it is still true that a college degree offers a wider range of job choices. Among people ages 25 to 34, unemployment of college grads is less than half that of those with only high school diplomas.

One reason may be that employers are impressed by degrees. "Employers tend to look upon those who finished college as more task-oriented and persistent," observes Louis-Edlin Datta of the National Institute of Education in Bethlehem, Pa.

Though the earning gap between college and high school grads has narrowed for men, female college graduates between the ages of 25 and 29 still make 21 percent more than high school graduates in the same age bracket. Miss Datta notes, "In most cases, it will be the college grad who will ride the top of the waves financially, no matter what the economic conditions."

Also, college provides a solid, well-rounded education. Marc Berman, currently in publishing, is grateful for her higher education. "College taught me to make decisions and be independent. I also learned discipline and research techniques, both valuable in many areas of my life."

So, while the value of a college education comes increasingly under fire, consider your own motives. The rewards may be well worth the investment.

Try Rolling Instead Of Strolling

NEW YORK — Skateboarding an Olympic sport? Well, not yet, though it has recently burgeoned from a California pastime into a national passion.

According to the November issue of Seventeen magazine, there are now an estimated 10 to 20 million skateboard lovers in a dozen countries.

Skateboarding is growing rapidly as a competitive sport, with all the major skateboarding manufacturers sponsoring teams, now. The first professional championship was held last fall, and top champions are being featured on network sports shows and in exhibitions.

But most people view skateboarding as a good, inexpensive hobby that helps develop coordination, flexibility and balance. Who knows, instead of strolling, you may be rolling in the park some day!

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

It's Cigars Vs. Cheap Perfume

Dear Ann Landers: May I introduce myself? I am "Stinky," the "inconsiderate slob" whose cigars smell up the office. I have no intention of taking all those insults lying down.

It so happens I have a very good reason for lighting a big fat cigar the minute I get to my desk. It's the lousy, cheap perfume the girls wear. Can you imagine working close quarters with four dames who wear Gardenia from dime store?

The girls also complain that my dentures go "clackety clack." I don't actually have full dentures — just partials, but they never did fit right and I feel like I have a small tricycle in my mouth. Yes, I do click a little, only to drown out the sound of the babes who pop their all day long. It drives me bonkers.

So you see, Ann, there are two sides to every story. And please don't suggest that I buy them expensive perfume. No deal. — Maligned

Dear Mal: How about a Truth Session — with both sides offering to give up something in order to gain something? Would you give up the stinky cigars if the gals gave up the perfume? Too bad Cy Vance is otherwise engaged. He'd solve the problem in a hurry.

The Right Tilt

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't laugh at me. I am very serious and need some of your best advice. I am a girl who will be 15 in seven weeks. A certain boy I like a lot is going to ask me for a date any minute. I can just feel it in my bones.

The problem is I wear glasses. I'm expecting him to kiss me goodnight. He wears glasses, too, and sometimes when both parties wear glasses, kissing can be awkward. Should I remove my glasses when we get to the door, in preparation for the kiss — or would it look too planned? If I took off my glasses and he didn't kiss me I'd fall right through the porch.

Please rush your answer, Ann. This is an emergency. — Toodle

Dear Toodle: I am typing as fast as I can, honey. I hope the advice reaches you in time.

Glasses will not interfere with a goodnight kiss — even if both parties are wearing them. It may take a little tilting of the head and jockeying for position but you'll manage. I'm sure. Others have.

'Klutzy' Is Missed

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from "Klutzy Carol" brought back some wonderful memories of the All-Time Winner of the National Klutz Award.

Many people have been known to fall down stairs, but this woman managed to fall up the stairs no matter where she was. She never failed to burn the toast or the roast or the pie crust because she talked too long on the phone. Usually helping someone in trouble.

ANN LANDERS

There was always a dent in the car fender or a smashed headlight because she couldn't back out straight, yet she had a knack for reconciling warring factions and could get the most difficult people to work together.

During her last years her voice cracked on the high notes when she sang "The Star Spangled Banner" but her spirit was so great nobody noticed.

Mom died three years ago but hardly a week goes by but what somebody comes up to me and says, "Gee, I miss your mother." — The Klutz's Daughter Dear Daughter: I loved your letter. The Klutz must have been a real doll.

How young is too young for a child to learn about sex? That's just one thing you'll find in Ann Landers's new booklet, "How, What and When to Tell Your Child About Sex." Send 50 cents in coin, along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11951, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Erma Bombeck

What Happened?

This column is an apology to the children of the '70s on what happened to Halloween.

Because this is a generation conceived after the Tonight Show, born during a commercial, educated by a big yellow bird, and has Baretta as a night light, I will explain it in language they can understand. Television.

I am saddened to inform you, kiddies, that Halloween has been cancelled due to poor ratings and a preponderance of sex and violence.

One of the original holidays, it has enjoyed high ratings for 66,394 weeks. (Second only to Christmas and "Roots").

The holiday, an ASD (All Saint's Day) Production, was originally created to focus attention on fun and games. (Like a Gang Show with taste). Little children would dress up like witches, ghosts, and goblins and roam the streets at night, then rush up to a door and yell, "Trick Or Treat." In keeping with the game, the person answering the door would opt for a treat and give them an apple or a piece of candy. Then they would try to guess who was behind the mask.

In the '50s, Halloween got the "Cher" touch. It became more elaborate, costumes became more sensational, and I opened my door to one group who were choreographed. The little bugs gave way to pillow cases and the pitter of little feet on the porch to trick shoes. It was like a greed Olympics. Cars and buses would bring in kids from all over the city and dump them into flats. Olders dominated the night. Some of them had mistletoes that tickled their noses.

In the '60s, the critics did a number on Halloween, as did sickies who put razor blades in apples and drugs in the candy, and Halloween fell out of its prime-time programming. It lost a lot of its audience and those who wanted to roam the darkness were at the mercy of parental discretion. Charlie's Angels couldn't have protected the little people. (The "blonic dog" maybe.)

Holidays are a ratings game. Few of them have the clout to name their own day. Many have been relegated to Mondays where they compete with Monday Night Football. The cancellation of Halloween should never have happened. We, as a people, should have been so outraged that a small band of people could take away an imaginative fun day for children that we would have fought to keep it.

1. for one... apologize.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Each year at this time I get the gout in my toes and my Achilles heel and ankle. I am taking Colbenemid tablets which don't seem to be very effective. I take a vitamin pill daily and also 100 units of vitamin E. I am on a low cholesterol diet and am wondering if it has any effect on my gout. What causes the gout? Is there any value in taking vitamin E for it as that seems very controversial today?

DEAR READER—Gout is caused by an overproduction of uric acid by your own body cells. It is really a defect in the way your cells function.

Medicines are designed to relieve the acute attack, to help the body flush out excess uric acid through the kidneys or to limit the production of uric acid by your own cells. I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-3, Gout, Uric Acid, to give you much more information on what gout is and what to do about it. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101.

No, vitamin E will not help. It has no effect on how your body produces uric acid. This is a good example of why I get annoyed with outlandish claims advertising vitamin E. It prevents people from getting the medical care they need while wasting money on something that will not help them.

The low cholesterol diet is fine. If you are on the right diet it may help prevent disease of the arteries that often accompanies gout.

I suspect that you need to be treated regularly before you develop an attack. With a good program that you stick to you can control the level of uric acid and probably prevent your attacks. But you must consider it a lifetime program if you want to get good results.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have high cholesterol and I haven't been able to get my cholesterol down by diet. The doctor gave me Atromid-S and one capsule a day didn't do it either. Now I am taking two. I read where you can get reactions from Atromid-S. What is a normal cholesterol count? My blood pressure is high too.

DEAR READER—You can get into trouble with almost any medicine. Even too much oxygen can harm you but you can't live without it. Usually the way to find out if you tolerate a medicine is to use it. Atromid-S can be used safely by most people but it doesn't always lower cholesterol levels.

If you have any excess fat at all under your skin get rid of it. That may help your cholesterol level a great deal and may help your blood pressure.

We usually think that the people with a cholesterol level below 220 have the least risk of having a heart attack, all other factors being normal. Office and clinic readings are often done by different techniques and may be normal even when they are 240 to 250.

If you have both high blood pressure and a high cholesterol you certainly should do something about both. Weight control is extremely important and of course if you smoke you should stop at once.

Oswald: "South's play to score a tenth trick was simple indeed. At trick two he led his six of hearts toward dummy. He was risking his contract. If East held the heart Jack, he could only gain the play if West held the heart Jack and ducked."

Jim: "If all seemed worthwhile to South. He did lead his six of hearts at trick two and West fell for it. He played low and now South had ten tricks and took them."

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader wants to know if there is a penalty for leading the lower of two touching honors (say jack from queen-jack) without alerting declarer.

If you are playing that as a convention you must have it on your convention card and should also alert. If your partner has no reason to suspect that you are making this lead, then there is no reason to alert.

Astro-Graph

Bernice Bado Osoi

Nov. 1, 1977

Take a hard look this coming year at any proposition involving new, novel or unique products or things. You could discover something that's a real winner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Let your logic govern you today rather than your emotions, especially if dealing with one you're not fond of but who is pertinent to your immediate needs. Find out who you're romantically suited to by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 488, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your inclinations today are to be helpful to friends. Poking your nose into the wrong situations, however, could just be asking for trouble.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Everybody likes to come out ahead in a bargain, but don't do so today at the expense of one who has always treated you fairly. It could backfire.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) If anyone can build a better mousetrap, you're the one. Use your ingenuity today to improve systems worldwide.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Conditions look generally favorable for you today, with one exception: Don't jump into any venture where you don't have all the facts.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In business matters affecting the family you and your mate won't be operating on the same wave length. Today your ideas are sounder, but sell them tactfully.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be careful of what you say today in front of an acquaintance who is not overly fond of you. Careless remarks could later be twisted.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're arranging a social activity today where the cost is to be divided equally, exclude a pal who always exits when the check arrives.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) It would be hard to find one more charming than you today, when among friends, yet with your family you're far less tolerant.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Your problem today won't be a lack of bright ideas. It will be your reluctance to depart from your usual way of doing things.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are inclined to take everyone at face value today. This could prove costly if you're dealing with a crafty or unscrupulous type.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Normally you are a sharer, but today you might be tempted to use people to serve your interests. Problems could erupt playing this unfamiliar role.

LITTLE EFFECT

Enriched breads do not contribute to dental caries like simple sugars since their starch is converted to sugar slowly in the digestive process — too slow to have much effect in the mouth.

Family Questions Ransom Demands

AMSTERDAM. The Netherlands (AP) — The family of Dutch millionaire Maurits Caransa says none of the many ransom demands telephoned to newspapers appears to be genuine and they have appealed by radio to his kidnappers to make their demands known.

Police are continuing to handle the abduction of the 41-year-old real estate operator as a criminal case and not as a political kidnapping by urban guerrillas. They said they have no reason to believe any of the calls received so far are authentic and they have received no written demand from anyone with evidence they are holding Caransa.

NOT EVEN FOR $500 Few Would Give Up TV

DETROIT (AP) — A person would be a fool not to trade a month without television for $500, right?

Wrong, according to 83 Detroit-area families who refused such an offer from the Detroit Free Press.

In an effort to study the effects of "television addiction," the newspaper approached 120 families, offering them $500 to give up TV for a month. Only 27 families said they'd go along with the deal.

A typical response came from a Romulus woman, who said: "My husband would never do it. He comes home from work and sits down in front of the TV. He gets up twice — once to eat and once to go to bed."

Of the minority who agreed to the proposal, the newspaper selected five families, each with a different social and economic background, and sent in TV repairmen Sept. 19 and 20 to disconnect their sets for a month.

—One couple stopped talking. Six days into the project the husband ducked behind a newspaper and never came out. "I think he's suffering from withdrawal," his wife said.

—Two people started chain-smoking — one going from 1 to 2½ packs a day.

—All the subjects said they saw more movies, read more, visited friends and relatives more often and took more weekend trips.

—Without TV, he HAS to talk to me," one wife said.

—Almost everyone reported periods of depression, boredom and nervousness.

—Two couples had more sex. "We went to bed at 9," one happy husband reported, "and we went to sleep at 11."

Farmers Planning Strike

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Declaring that low farm prices may wipe out small towns, farmers from six midwestern states gathered to pledge support for a nationwide farm strike Dec. 14.

"If I go down, business which is totally dependent on agriculture will go down, too," said Stan DeBoer, a grain farmer from Bertrand, Neb.

"That means small town U.S.A. would be finished, my children wouldn't be able to grow up on a farm," he continued. "I've no alternative, I've got to fight."

DeBoer was among the 800 people who gathered in Topeka Sunday for a rally sponsored by American Agriculture, a loosely knit movement of farmers headquartered in Springfield, Colo.

The Kansas rally followed recent similar events in Texas and Georgia, with others scheduled in the future in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Delaware and other farm states.

DeBoer said prices for most commodities are so low that

HE REGRETS 'CZAR'S FOLLY'

SITKA, Alaska (AP) — Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, the highest ranking Russian to visit Alaska since Alexander II sold it to the United States in 1867, says a four-day tour of the state reminded him "how stupid the czars were."

Dobrynin and his wife, Irina, concluded their unofficial visit Sunday with a bus tour of this former Russian capital of North America. It was in Sitka that representatives of President Andrew Johnson and Czar Alexander formally concluded the $7.2 million dollar deal negotiated by Secretary of State William Seward.

"I know it was known as 'Seward's folly,'" Dobrynin joked. "But Alexander was known as foolish in my own country long before he sold Alaska."

Congress Hunting Ways To Boost Gas Economy

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, convinced the automobile is the chief cause of energy waste, is looking for a way to steer American motorists toward gasline-sipping cars.

But the lawmakers, who are now considering the transportation part of President Carter's energy program, cannot decide whether to impose a tax that will make inefficient autos unattractive to buyers or to ban them altogether.

The Senate planned to vote today on the tax, similar to the one recommended by Carter and passed by the House.

Meanwhile, a Senate-House conference committee that is considering non-tax portions of Carter's program is hoping to break a deadlock over a provision, already passed by the Senate, that would prohibit production of cars that get poor mileage.

That ban, which House conferees have twice refused to accept, would apply starting in 1981 to cars getting less than 16 miles per gallon, and rising to 21 mpg by 1985.

The auto tax is one of several issues that remain to be considered before the Senate completes work on its energy tax bill. Approval of the bill could come late today, sending it to the conference committee. Another set of conferees representing the Senate and House will try once again to agree on conditions under which federal Medicaid funds could be used to finance abortions for the poor.

The dispute is tying up a $60.2 billion appropriation bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. Failure to act on that bill could delay paychecks for thousands of federal workers.

The House has voted to allow federally paid abortions only in cases in which the woman's life would be endangered by a full-term pregnancy and in some rape cases.

Insulation Demand Is Followed By Shortages

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Visions of a future tax break and memories of past winter heating bills have prompted millions of consumers to improve their home insulation. They have also caused concern about shortages and shady business practices.

President Carter's proposal to provide up to $400 in tax credits for homeowners who install insulation, storm windows and other energy-saving devices is still pending as Congress grapples with the administration's energy package.

But the Department of Commerce says the use of insulation has increased already. The department said three million homes were reinsulated in the first half of 1977, up from only 700,000 homes in the same period a year earlier.

The department estimates there will be enough insulation this year for 1.9 million new homes, 3.4 million existing homes and 300,000 mobile homes. But the ultimate market is much bigger.

A National Bureau of Standards study in 1974 — the latest year for which figures are available — showed that some 40 million, owner-occupied, single-family homes needed more insulation. Eighteen million of the homes had no insulation at all.

Manufacturers in the $700 million industry also warn of tight supplies, particularly of fiberglass. The Federal Trade Commission is investigating competition in the industry, and the Consumer Product Safety Commission has held hearings on safety aspects of insulation.

Meanwhile, the two agencies have some advice for consumers who are considering hiring a contractor or installing their own insulation. —Mineral wool. This includes rock wool and fiberglass and accounts for 80 to 85 per cent of residential insulation. It can be blown in place or purchased in blankets or "batts" with a vapor barrier to prevent moisture inside a building from passing through walls and ceilings and condensing on the insulation.

—Cellulose fiber. Made of polystyrene, polyurethane or urea formaldehyde. It can be purchased in pre-formed sheets or can be injected into existing walls as a wet foam by a contractor.

booklets available to help consumers. "Making the Most of Your Energy Dollars" provides detailed information on how to figure out how much insulation you need and what it will cost you. The booklet costs 70 cents.

The FTC warns that deception of consumers is most likely to occur in claims about flammability or thermal resistance — the ability to prevent heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer.

Acceptable standards for flammability have been established by the American Society of Testing and Materials and many manufacturers meet these standards. But the FTC says these "acceptable" products may still burn and should not be installed near heat.

According to the government, "Consumers who choose a polyurethane or polystyrene product should know they cannot be used safely unless enclosed in a flame and heat-retardant structure such as gypsum board. This is true to a lesser degree for mineral wool, cellulose and urea formaldehyde insulation products."

Confusion also may arise over the "R" value of insulation, which tells you how well the material will prevent heat transfer. In most cases, the higher the "R" value, the more efficient the insulation. You must compare cost and efficiency to determine which product is the best buy for you.

Unscrupulous salesmen may claim a product has an unrealistically high "R" value. To help you make sure you are getting what you pay for, the government offers the following guide to generally accepted, maximum "R" value per square inch of insulation:

Mineral wool batts and blankets, 3.1; cellulose loose fill, 3.1 to 3.7; urea formaldehyde, 4.1; polystyrene, 6.25; polyurethane, 6.25; perlite, 2.7; aluminum foil, 2.0.
Note: If you are hiring a contractor, talk with him in terms of "R" values, not thickness of insulation. If he will not discuss "R" values, do not deal with him.

Memory Of Last Winter's Cold Prompts Fuel-Saving Practices

There are three basic types of insulation:

—Mineral wool. This includes rock wool and fiberglass and accounts for 80 to 85 per cent of residential insulation. It can be blown in place or purchased in blankets or "batts" with a vapor barrier to prevent moisture inside a building from passing through walls and ceilings and condensing on the insulation.

—Plastic foam. Made of finely ground cellulose products such as recycled newspaper, this insulation can be poured or blown in place.

The type of insulation you choose depends in part on where you are installing it. Mineral wool batts are generally easiest to install during construction or in an unfinished attic. If you are adding insulation to existing walls or a finished attic, however, you might prefer loose fill or a plastic foam.

The government has several

"In the Bank or Up the Chimney" has illustrated, how-to instructions on weatherstripping, caulking and insulation. It costs $1.70. Both are available from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81008.

Further information on specific types of insulation is available from the National Mineral Wool Association, 382 Springfield Ave., Summit, N.J., 07901 and the National Cellulose Insulation Manufacturers Association, 400 West Madison St., Chicago, Ill., 60606.

Creator Of Brewster Chair To Sculpt Jerry Ford Bust

NORTH SCITUATE, R.I. (AP) — A Rhode Island wood carver who fooled museum experts with a fake antique "Great Brewster Chair" has been commissioned to sculpt a bust of former President Gerald Ford.

Armand LaMontagne, the woodcarver, said he's delighted with the opportunity to sculpt the life-size wooden bust of the 37th president for Ford's library and museum, which will house congressional and presidential papers and memorabilia.

A Ford staff member said the former president's schedule will not permit Ford to sit for LaMontagne, but daughter Susan Ford, a photographer, is taking close-up photos and taking her father's measurements for the sculptor.

"I'll stop everything else and get to work on it as soon as I get the pictures," LaMontagne said. He said his fee hadn't been decided.

Ford learned about LaMontagne through Gerald Beverland, a Floridian for whom LaMontagne carved a bust of Abraham Lincoln last year.

Beverland said he sent a picture of the Lincoln bust to Ford, accompanied by a letter briefly mentioning the fake chair episode involving the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn.

Niles Man Dies; Ruling Is Awaited

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — A Niles man who died after a fight in a restaurant north of here Saturday night suffered an apparent heart attack, according to St. Joseph County (Ind.) police detectives.

The victim was identified by police as Charles Zavor, 40, of 210 S. 15th St.

Officers said Zavor died after he was involved in a fist fight with a South Bend man who allegedly made disparaging remarks about Zavor's wife, Carolyn.

While police this morning were still awaiting a ruling on the cause of death from the St. Joseph County coroner's office, detectives said it is believed Zavor suffered a heart attack in the White House Restaurant, located on US-31.

The man with whom Zavor fought was not charged, pending a review of the case by the St. Joseph County prosecutor's office, and was treated and released from St. Joseph Hospital, South Bend, following the fight.

Police said they were called to the restaurant located less than two miles south of the Indiana-Michigan state line about 8:30 p.m. Michigan time.

Crash Near Niles Kills Hoosier, 75

NILES — A South Bend, Ind., man died in a two-car accident south of Niles on U.S.-31 at Bertrand Road Sunday afternoon, state police here reported.

Police said the accident occurred when Moore turned left toward Bertrand from south.

Troopers identified the victim as Myron Moore, 75, who was a passenger in an auto driven by his son, Brendan, 23, also of South Bend.

Police said Brendan Moore and the driver of the second car, Sheila Kiefer, 17, 728 Broadway, Niles, were both treated and released from Pawling hospital here for injuries suffered in the 4:50 p.m. crash.

Police said the accident occurred when Moore turned left toward Bertrand from south.

Troopers said Myron Moore was pronounced dead on arrival at Pawling shortly after the crash. Dr. John Bruni, deputy Berrien County medical examiner, ruled that he died of massive internal injuries suffered in the accident, according to police.

The Moore auto was struck on the right front passengers' side, where the victim was seated. Troopers said.

No citations were issued and the crash remains under investigation, police said.

Magazine Names Top 10 Women

NEW YORK (AP) — News-caster Barbara Walters, tennis player Billie Jean King and publisher Katharine Graham are among the 10 women considered the most powerful in America by Harper's Bazaar magazine.

The magazine said in its November issue that the women it selected had "overcome formidable odds (in) boldly invading traditionally male dominated areas."

The other women named were:

—U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Texas, who "commands more national recognition than most of her colleagues can look forward to in a lifetime."

—Lady Bird Johnson, "a spirited and tenacious campaigner for dozens of environmental projects."

—Washington Gov. Dixy Lee Ray, a biologist who headed the old Atomic Energy Commission and remains a science adviser to the Department of Defense.

—First Lady Rosalynn Carter, who "rallied support for her long-standing drive to upgrade mental health."

—Charlotte Curtis, Op-Ed editor of The New York Times.

—Mary Wells Lawrence, head of Wells, Rich, Greene Inc., an advertising agency.

—Sarah Caldwell, conductor of the Opera Company of Boston.

The magazine noted that Ms. King is credited with helping tennis achieve its current popularity.

Mrs. Graham, the magazine said, heads a business empire which has made the Fortune 500 list of top corporations.

Barbara Walters is "the first woman to co-anchor a prime time network newscast," the magazine noted.

Two Men Are Charged In Fatal Detroit Fire

DETROIT (AP) — Two men are charged with starting a blaze that killed a rookie fireman and seriously injured five other firefighters.

Detroit Police said, 36, and Ronnie Foster, 27, both of Detroit, were held without bond Sunday in the Wayne County Jail following their arraignment in Detroit Recorder's Court on arson and felony murder charges.

Police said Seymour and Foster were identified by residents who saw them running from the area about the time a one-alarm fire broke out in a vacant house on the city's east side Saturday night. Detroit Police Homicide Sgt. Tom Peterson said Seymour moved from the home about a week ago.

Fireman Curtis Randolph, 21, was killed and Mark Zaramba, Jerald Apel Jr., Edwin Michael, Mike Martin and Lt.

Edward Stephens were injured in an explosion caused by fresh air mixing with fumes from the blaze.

Randolph was the first Detroit firefighter to die in the line of duty in 2½ years. The five injured firemen, the largest number injured in a single fire in at least 10 years, were hospitalized in serious to critical condition Sunday with burns and smoke inhalation.

AVANTI Invents the Saturn™ Base

The reason the "Saturn" is so revolutionary is that it is absolutely the only combination vertical and horizontal omni-directional antenna. That's right, it needs no rotor! You can pick up mobiles (which are vertical) or horizontal and vertical beams.

AVANTI's unique CO-INDUCTIVE principle to give you the performance of two antennas combined into one. The P.D.L. and Moonraker made dual polarity famous as the only antennas to have during the last sun spot cycle, and this time around any serious C.B.'er will want to have the "Saturn".

Thousands Of Lithuanians Riot After Soccer Game With Russians

By SETH MYDANS

Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — An estimated 15,000 Lithuanians streamed out of a soccer stadium in Vilnius, ripped down propaganda posters, overturned cars and set police vehicles afire in some of the worst rioting since the Soviet Union took over the Baltic country in 1940, dissident sources said.

A spokesman for the Interior Ministry in Vilnius (Vilna), the capital of Soviet Lithuania, admitted there was a "disturbance" after a soccer match between a Lithuanian and Russian team on Oct. 10. But he said it was not serious.

"As often happens, several teenagers got into a fight after the game," he said. "Four of them were detained, spoken to and let go."

One dissident, ambulance medic Alexander Podrabinek, said he visited Vilnius and was told the trouble began when the crowd at the match began to shout "Russians go home" and "Katsapy," a derogatory term for Russians.

When the game ended, the spectators started their rampage through the streets. Militiamen, security police and auxiliary policemen tried to control the rioting, but when they made arrests, the crowd surged in to free the prisoners, residents said.

The next morning, troops armed with automatic weapons patrolled the streets.

Podrabinek said he did not know how many people were arrested. He said he was told there was another disturbance four nights later but could not confirm it.

The Vilnius newspaper Vechernije Novosti reported several days later that the rioting was the work of "drunken hoodlums," he said.

There has been sporadic violence in Lithuania since 1940, notably in 1958 after the Hungarian revolt and again in 1972.

The 1972 riot in the city of Kaunas was touched off when a 20-year-old man set himself afire for nationalist and religious reasons, sources said at the time.

In Moscow, meanwhile, 40 dissidents appealed to the Soviet government to release thousands of imprisoned dissidents as part of the nationwide amnesty that is expected for the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution on Nov. 7.

In an open letter given to Western newsmen, the appeal asked that the amnesty apply "without exception to all political prisoners internal exiles and those in madhouses for political reasons, no matter what the charge against them or the length of their term."

An amnesty was declared 10 years ago for the 50th anniversary of the revolution, but most imprisoned dissidents were excluded.

'Cancer Mystery' Clouds State Town

BRECKENRIDGE, Mich. (AP) — It began innocently enough — a few blood tests here and there, interviews of local persons by University of Michigan investigators, and a rash of unanswered questions.

But next came the accusations, the harassment, the damaging insinuations, and the people of Breckenridge say they are "fed-up." The sensationalism which surrounded their little town since the so-called "cancer mystery" was unveiled last month, they claim, has served no meaningful purpose.

"We just want to be left alone," the villagers echo, one after another. "Just let us go back, like the way it was before."

"Before" found Breckenridge, a small farming community of some 1,400 sandwiched between Alma and Saginaw on Michigan 46, a quiet, peaceful village.

Police Chief Ken Beeson calls

U.S. Drafting

Drug Warnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is drafting consumer leaflets to warn tranquilizer users that they may become dependent on the drugs.

The brochures also would advise against mixing tranquilizers with alcohol.

it "a nice, safe place to bring your kids up in" — and who ought to know better than an officer of the law?

Part of Gratiot County, Breckenridge's claim to fame is the massive B&W Co-op, located smack in the center of town. The Co-op, the largest country elevator in the state, stores mostly navy beans, wheat, corn and soybeans.

But something has changed in the village, something that cannot be pinpointed, or even noticed by a visitor.

The townspeople themselves are the only ones aware of the dark cloud that has settled upon them and given the chance, they would just as soon trade in their "notoriety" for the good old days of being anonymous to the world again.

The cloud descended a few weeks back when a group of UM researchers, who had worked closely with a team of investigators from the federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta and Michigan Department of Health officials, announced that Hodgkin's disease, or cancer of the lymph glands, is 20 times more common in Breckenridge than in the general population.

Over a 20-year period, from 1954-74, 10 cases of Hodgkin's and four cases of lymphoma, a related cancer, were found among the town's residents, verifying Breckenridge's annual occurrence rate was much higher than the national average.

Then, "all hell broke loose."

as one citizen puts it. A front-page article in a Detroit newspaper, quoting the findings of the UM study, drew a correlation between the high cancer rate to the navy beans stored in the B&W Co-op elevators.

During harvest time, the elevator emits a dust cloud from the beans that powders the entire surrounding area. Since the navy beans contain a chemical that is used in research laboratories to induce cell division, the investigators questioned aloud if this discovery meant anything.

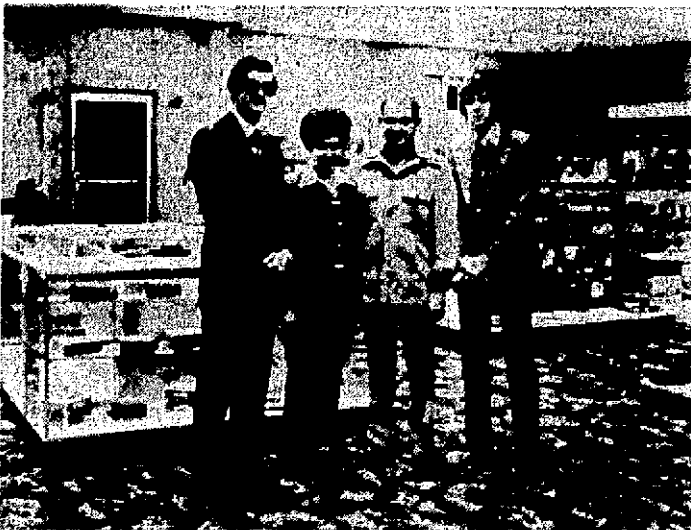

A random blood test found that Breckenridge residents who lived near the elevator showed a greater sensitivity to the bean than nonresidents who also were tested. Once again, eyebrows were raised.

The newspaper article also suggested the slight possibility of Hodgkin's being a communicable disease, saying the spread of the cancer in several instances "very much resembles the spread of an infectious disease."

Next came television crews, then Time magazine, then an endless stream of reporters from all over the state.

A federal study was disclosed, indicating the oil industry just may be linked to this "abnormally high incidence of cancer in this small community."

Snorted Police Chief Beeson: "If you ask me, they're just grabbing at loose ends now, trying to find an answer when there may not be one at all."

Black Muslims On New Tack

DETROIT (AP) — Black Muslims, who once used hatred of whites as bait to attract new members, are trying to project a less radical image.

Wallace D. Muhammad, leader of the religious and political sect, said the Nation of Islam has started admitting whites and no longer advocates a separate black nation.

Other changes include a relaxation of the dress code that restricted men to suits and ties and required women to keep their head and legs covered. "The old day has passed. The new day is here," Muhammad told about 4,000 persons Sunday. Muhammad said his father, the late Muslim leader Elijah Muhammad, used racism only to attract those who felt they could not identify with the mainstream of American life. "What my father preached was not he what he lived for," Muhammad said. "All the time my father was teaching separation he was working toward a time when the nation would be ready to accept the transformation — he was gradually transforming the mind through his actions."

Muhammad, who became head of the sect after his father died in 1975, said the transformation is complete and the need for bait no longer exists. "We have been transformed."

We have come into a new mind, a new personality."

Among the spectators at the meeting was heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, who converted to Islam at the height of his athletic career. Ali will be honored here later this week.

The first Black Muslim congregation was established in Detroit in 1930 by a peddler who sold silks from the Middle East door to door.

U.N. CENSURE VOTE DUE Bush War Flares Up In Africa

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
The South African and Rhodesian governments reported killing 87 black guerrillas in two border battles as the U.N. Security Council prepared to vote today on four African resolutions censuring South Africa.

The South African government said its troops killed 61 guerrillas and lost five of its own soldiers in a 36-hour battle last week along the border between South-West Africa and Angola. It was the heaviest fighting reported in the 10-year-old bush war for the independence of South-West Africa, a pre-World War I German territory.

A communique said government troops engaged an 80-man force of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO) on Thursday and battled back and forth across the border. It said the South Africans reached the guerrilla's "most northern base" in Angola before retreating Saturday. The announcement did not say where along the 800-mile border the fighting took place.

Meanwhile, the Rhodesian government said its army intercepted a guerrilla force crossing into Rhodesia from Zambia and killed 26 of the black insurgents. It did not say when or where along the border the battle took place.

The Rhodesian government also announced an exchange of fire with Zambian troops across the Zambezi River near the Victoria Falls. The communique said Zambian forces shelled Rhodesian enclaves, and Rhodesian forces returned the fire and appeared to hit an ammunition dump. No Rhodesian casualties were reported, but there was damage to buildings and vehicles, the government said.

Representatives from Britain and the United Nations were scheduled to begin two days of cease-fire talks with leaders of the black Rhodesian guerrillas today in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania.

Lord Carver, Britain's commissioner-designate for Rhodesia, and Gen. Prem Chand of India, designated by the United Nations to head a transitional peacekeeping force, then will go to Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, U.S. sources predicted that British votes would kill three African resolutions calling for embargoes on arms, trade, investments and loans to South Africa but the council as a stopgap measure would approve the fourth resolution demanding that the South African government lift the bans it imposed Oct. 19 on black organizations and newspapers.

The sources said after the votes, the council members probably would begin work on a compromise resolution calling for an arms embargo, using a less forcefully worded draft being promoted by the United States, Canada, Britain, France and West Germany.

Andrew Young, the American ambassador to the United Nations, said on the ABC television program "Issues and Answers" that economic sanctions against South Africa do not make sense "businesswise" and he would not support such a program.

He pointed out that 462 American corporations have invested $2 billion in South Africa, and added: "Nobody is reasonably going to pick up three billion dollars worth of plants and products and equipment and move it anywhere."

Young also said he does not favor a ban on the sale of nuclear fuel to South Africa. He said the country has such an advanced nuclear potential that a cutoff "would only encourage separate development."

Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security adviser, said on CBS's "Face the Nation" that South Africa's racial problems must be settled peacefully to prevent the intrusion of the Soviet Union or Cuba.

Brzezinski said the Cubans had participated in the Angolan civil war, they may be involved in Ethiopia, and they could be tempted by the South African situation.

He said the Soviet Union also could take advantage of any urban guerrilla violence, external guerrilla penetration or belligerent black governments on South Africa's borders to send arms or instructors.

"Once urban violence develops, once there is major intrusion of foreign influence and support, the situation becomes increasingly uncontrollable," he said.

PSYCHOLOGISTS say when two people with square heads marry, they'll lead a life of conflict as each battles to gain power and control. One born under Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) does not care about starting at the bottom and working his way up — for drudgery does not appeal to him. If you suffer from xenophobia, it means you have a fear of strangers. Our Confusing Language: If you can put a boot on your foot, why can't you put beet on your feet? Graphology Note: There is no such thing as masculine or feminine handwriting. The expert never guesses the sex and has to be told if it's a man or a woman. Add phobias: The fear of cats is properly called ailurophobia. Psychologists say emotional adjustment relieves much physical tension. It allows one to breathe rhythmically, to maintain muscular tone and feel relaxed.

FADED PHRASES: "He wangled his way in." "Grass doesn't grow on a busy street" and "It's a real Jim dandy." Overheard: "Remember when nurses were in attendance at the showings of horror movies — allegedly to take care of any members of the audience who fainted!" Grease usually puts skids under people, but it made millionaires of Ken Weissman and Maxine Fox, the young married couple who produced "Grease." The companies of this show have taken in some 40 million dollars thus far! Time-consuming job: Earl Blackwell at Pen & Pencil, revealed he's hard at work on the next edition of his "Celebrity Register," which will not be out till '79. Robert Vaughn has portrayed Teddy Roosevelt, Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Harry Truman. (Bob's the only actor in Hollywood with a manager, agent and campaign manager!) Tennis buff Rich Little, who does a devastating Jimmy Carter, says he also wishes he could do a perfect impression of Jimmy Connors! The Harlem Globetrotters will have new uniforms this year and the first one, number "11," went to honorary Globetrotter, Henry Kissinger.

HELPFUL HINTS: Let eggs stay in very warm water before boiling and they will rarely break or crack. Mildew in many cases can be removed from valuable papers and book pages if you dust them with cornstarch and allow the powder to remain a few days before brushing off.

Board To Discuss Teacher Contract

LAWRENCE — Efforts to get contract approval with the district's teachers is expected to come under discussion next Wednesday when the Van Buren Intermediate School Board holds its monthly meeting.

A new two-year pact, hammered out by negotiators for the board and Van Buren Intermediate Education Association, was rejected by the teacher's group Oct. 20 on a 34-33 vote. Since then, there has been no change in the situation, according to Superintendent Ernest Shaw.

Shaw declined to speculate whether the board will stand by the negotiated contract, or make a new offer. He said the board has agreed not to release any details of the pact until it is ratified. The district's 84 teachers have been working without a contract since Aug. 15.

Special Problems Warrant Specialized Health Care

Although Chiropractic has existed since 1895, many people still aren't aware of its basic principles or the types of injuries or illnesses which can best be treated by Chiropractic.

"Just the other day, I learned of a young lady who was hospitalized for seven and one half weeks for treatments of a lateral subluxation," says Dr. Ackerman, D.C., of Ackerman Chiropractic Center by way of explaining the lack of general knowledge that still exists concerning Chiropractic. "In everyday terms, that means that one of the vertebrae in her spine had slipped sideways. And what were the results after two months of costly hospital care? Nil! The young lady was no better and no worse than when she was first admitted for treatment."

Dr. Ackerman emphasized that while each case must be examined on an individual basis, this case would appear to be a classic case for Chiropractic. "Lateral subluxations can be and often are treated effectively by Chiropractic," he explained. "And let me add that, to his credit, the Medical Doctor who treated the young lady recommended against surgery in her case, citing that the risks involved outweighed the possible benefits in her particular case."

This tragic story is just another example of how many people fail to think in terms of Chiropractic when they think of back problems.

"They wouldn't call a podiatrist if they had a toothache, and they certainly wouldn't call the dentist in the middle of the night to deliver a baby," the good Doctor illustrated. "Yet they expect to solve their back problems with a pain pill or liniment."

Dr. Ackerman pointed out that over 700 leading insurance companies and virtually every state's Workmen Compensation program honor Chiropractic claims for treatment of accident and industrial injury cases because statistics prove Chiropractic is the most effective method of treating such back injuries.

Medicine, Dentistry, Osteopathy, and Chiropractic are all recognized by the United States government as legitimate healing arts," Dr. Ackerman concluded. "Each has its place in the nation's health care needs. And when your problem is one involving the nerves, muscles and spine, modern Chiropractic is your best defense against future suffering."

Richard Pryor His Temper Shows

TANTRUM TIME: Everyone who isn't mad at Richard Pryor is wondering what's gotten into him. You remember that he outraged a mostly gay audience at a Hollywood Bowl benefit recently and now the latest episode at NBC. Just before he was scheduled to do the final taping of his fourth TV special he suddenly decided that he would not go on stage unless the entire audience was black. Since most of the TV audience was already in their seats it would have been impossible to grant Pryor's wish even if the network wanted to, which they didn't. It took a lot of brass and a lot of convincing to talk Pryor out of his unreasonable demand.

Q: I read there's a possibility of bringing back a new version of that super 60s TV series, "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." —

PEOPLE

By Robin Adams Sloan

and recall the vying for publicity of the two acting leads, Robert Vaughn and David McCallum. Are they on good terms today? — H.A., Omaha, Neb.

A: Far from being rivals, the talented men from U.N.C.L.E. are like brothers — very buddy-buddy.

Whenever Vaughn, who played Napoleon Solo on TV, visits New York and checks in at the swank Hotel Altea, he's invariably joined by McCallum, who had his own mystique as Illya Kuryakin. The pair are such fast friends, they have become Dutch uncles to each other's kids.

TINY TIDBITS: Former White House press secretary Ron Nissen has lost 40 pounds. He says he did it jogging five miles a day and living on yogurt... Beatle Ringo Starr just turned down an offer of $1 million for his mansion in Berkshire, England. It was an offer from an Arab oil sheik, of course... Sammy Davis Jr. became enamored of that famous fabric Quasi uses for luggage, pocketbooks, and wallets. He talked the elegant shop into running up a pair of trousers for him in the fabric with the double G's all over it... Jennifer O'Neill's best friend is her German shepherd. He scared off a would-be nigger in Rome.

Q: How do you think Debbie Reynolds feels about her daughter, Carrie Fisher, being such a big star as a result of "Star Wars"? — A.G., Ulica, Miss.

A: Carrie admits that her mother, like most actresses, is pretty competitive, but not with her own daughter. Carrie says that her mother is thrilled with her success. Recently, when Debbie was asked to open a new supermarket, dozens of kids who had never heard of Debbie Reynolds as an actress asked for her autograph because they heard she was Carrie Fisher's mother.

Q: I hear British actress Joan Collins is penning a sizzling new book. What's it about? — F.S., Providence, R.I.

A: As is the case with most book-writing actresses, the tome will be about Joan herself. But it does promise to be

McCALLUM: Buddy-buddy with Vaughn

RINGO: No to $1 million offer juicy. Word is she'll tell all, right down to intimate details about her former husbands and lovers, including Maxwell Reed, Anthony Newley, Arthur Loew Jr. and Warren Beatty. No word yet from Joan's current, Rini Kass.

CARTER STYLE: We're not saying that President Carter has anything against bachelors but Jimmy certainly does believe in the institution of marriage. Whether his beliefs have had any influence on his aides is anybody's guess. But since his election three members of his administration have tied the knot: deputy press secretary Rex Granum; director of White House projects Greg Schneiders and cabinet secretary Jack Walsm.

Curious Spectators Flock To Hughes Murder Trial

By CYNTHIA KYLE
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The curious come daily, inspired by headlines about a Dansville woman charged with killing her ex-husband and feminist claims that the case could begin legal groundwork for the rights of battered women.

Students, relatives, lawyers and long-time court watchers brave long lines and a metal detector scan to get into the 85-seat Ingham County Circuit courtroom where Francine Hughes' trial continues today.

Mrs. Hughes, a 30-year-old mother of four, is charged with first-degree murder in the death of her ex-husband. Her defense is that years of repeated beatings drove her to set fire to the Dansville house in which 31-year-old James Hughes died.

But the prosecuting attorney, Martin Palus, has said he will attempt to prove that a "relationship" with another man, not abuse, was Mrs. Hughes' motive.

Feminists, who have rallied around Mrs. Hughes with a $1,000 defense fund and daily courtroom attendance, say they hope the case will strike a landmark blow for the rights of "battered" women.

"It's an issue that cuts across society — it affects everyone," said Kate Young, a member of the Francine Hughes Defense Committee. She has been in the courtroom since the trial started a week ago.

Defense committee member Sheila Blanchard has come to the trial most days. Many of the students there have come in support of Mrs. Hughes, she said.

"There may be some here who are battered women," she said. "If I were a battered woman, I would come here to see what can be done."

Construction worker Tom McInerney was in court Thursday, off work because of an injury. "I was just interested," he said. "But I came especially for this case. It has landmark repercussions for battered women and their rights."

Dennis Smith, a 17-year-old high school student, was required to attend a trial to fulfill requirements for a seminar. Not certain as to why he came to the trial, however, he said he wants to find out the reason for Hughes' death.

"Battered women have nothing to do with this," he said. "It doesn't seem like that has anything to do with it."

Smith's classmate Joe Dionise, 17, said the trial is more action-packed than ones he's observed in the past.

"This is a big thing that a lot of people are talking about," he said. "It's in the headlines. I want to see if she's guilty or not."

Ingham County police involved in the case generally agree that "women's lib" is the trial's chief drawing card.

But retired secretary Bea Kellerman said she came to the courtroom to determine whether there was justice.

"We see so much on television that's exaggerated," she said. "I'd like to see what's real and what's being promoted. I want to see if there's a right and a wrong."

Autos Recalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 5,000 TR7 automobiles are being recalled by British Leyland Motors to replace defective accelerator cables, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration reports.

The recall announced involves 1975 and 1976 models sold in the United States and comes as a result of the safety agency's investigation of the cable problem. The cable links the accelerator with the carburetor.

TEACHERS ASK

THE BENTON HARBOR SCHOOL BOARD:

HOW CAN YOU JUSTIFY YOUR POSITION?

THE TAXPAYERS DESERVE TO KNOW!!

The Benton Harbor Education Association in a formal letter asks the School Board to justify its position and to consent to an open discussion to be held between the Board and a committee of teachers before the end of this week (November 5, 1977).

The Benton Harbor Teachers are printing these questions which must be answered so all taxpayers may understand the issues which have caused the impasse in contract talks. During the spring millage campaign, the Board stated that without an increase in local millage, the Board would reduce and subsequently has reduced:

The number of teachers in many specific areas of education, thus increasing the number of students per class.

The number and variety of books throughout the district.

The maintenance of buildings, including custodians, repairs, plans for additions such as new buildings, improved playgrounds, new and capital outlay equipment.

The questions are:

- I. How can the Board justify the continued employment of lawyers for negotiations, paying a $70.00 per hour fee and $37,191.00 since April 5, 1977?
- II. If money is a problem, why do top administrators at 711 East Britain all have comparable salaries and working conditions with others in the state, while teachers, secretaries, principals and paraprofessionals all have problems in settling their contracts?
- III. How can the Board justify a new insurance plan with one-third the coverage, and then offer to pay more money for the new lesser policy when teachers have demonstrated over and over lesser insurance is not acceptable?
- IV. Teachers have consented to return to work without a contract for the continuance of education in the Benton Harbor Area Schools. Without this consent, education for the 1977-78 school year would be in complete turmoil.
In 1971 teachers worked without a contract until April, when the contract was ratified. No retroactivity was allowed.
How can the Board justify its stand of not agreeing to honor the contract from the beginning of the 1977-78 school calendar?
How can the Board say to teachers that working in good faith without a contract while negotiating is not appreciated by the Benton Harbor Area Schools?

Brings Denver Back To Earth, 24-14

Oakland Gets Revenge

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turnout was fair play — or perhaps it was the turnovers. "Turnovers were the difference. We had eight of them the last time we met, but we didn't have any this time and were able to keep the upper hand," Oakland Coach John Madden said after his Raiders, literally mugged by Denver 30-7 a couple of weeks ago, turned around and broke the Broncos' backs 24-14 to bring the Mile High City back to earth.

It left the teams tied atop the American Conference West, each at 6-1, an American Football Conference-best record also held by Baltimore.

The National Conference, meanwhile, now has the only unbeaten team. The Dallas Cowboys, off to their best start since the team was formed in 1960, mauling Detroit 37-0 on Roger Staubach's three touchdown passes and Edren Herrera's three field goals.

In other National Football

League action it was Baltimore 31, Pittsburgh 21; Chicago 26, Green Bay 0; New Orleans 27, Los Angeles 26; San Francisco 21, Tampa Bay 10; Seattle 56, Buffalo 17; San Diego 14, Miami 13; New England 24, New York Jets 13; Washington 23, Philadelphia 17; Cleveland 44, Kansas City 7; Minnesota 14, Atlanta 7; and Cincinnati 13, Houston 10 in overtime. The New York Giants visit St. Louis tonight.

Red Miller, who had the Broncos flying high in his first season as Denver's head coach, could only applaud Oakland's solid, basic play.

"They used their weapons to the utmost," he said. "They had great blocking in running to their left side ... and our two turnovers made a difference. It was just the opposite of what happened in Oakland" when Denver played virtually error-free ball and the Raiders' Ken Stabler was intercepted seven times.

Th left side was manned by guard Gene Upshaw and tackle Art Shell, who opened gaping holes for Mark van Egghen and Clarence Davis. They teamed for 187 yards and had a touchdown run apiece. Stabler started the scoring with a 21-yard TD pass to Cliff Branch and Oakland had a 24-0 lead before Denver did anything.

The last time the Steelers visited "Baltimore," Terry Bradshaw passed for three touchdowns in a 40-14 playoff romp. This time it was Bert Jones' turn. The Colts' quarterback came through with scoring strikes of 26 yards to Roosevelt Leaks and 13 yards to Lydell Mitchell and a 6-yard TD run of his own.

The Baltimore defense kicked in with five interceptions and Pittsburgh kicked itself around with 112 yards in penalties.

Rich Szabo's field goal with three minutes to play — a 31-yarder that brushed the right upright and wobbled through the goalposts — gave the Saints their upset over Los Angeles.

Pat Haden threw for two Rams touchdowns and Tony Galtbreath ran for a pair for New Orleans. The difference in the game was a missed extra point, when a center snap sailed over the LA holder's head.

Delvin Williams ran 35 yards and Wilbur Jackson went in from the 2 for San Francisco touchdowns, but the Bucs once again helped beat themselves with a costly fumble.

Williams' score came after Ricky Bell coughed up the ball for Tampa Bay, now winless in the 14 years they've been in the league.

Seattle, which won two games last year, won its second of 1977 and it was by far the Seahawks' most impressive game. Jim Zorn, sidelined for a month with a damaged knee, fired four touchdown passes, two to Steve Largent, and ran for another score in the rout of the Bills.

Virtually nothing went right for Buffalo. O.J. Simpson, a questionable starter because of knee problems, sat out the second half after getting only 32 yards in the first two periods.

Benny Malone fumbled away Miami's victory, giving the Chargers the ball on the Dolphin 33-yard line with 1:48 to play. Exactly 1:48 later, San Diego quarterback James Harris ran 5 yards for a tying touchdown, then Rolf Benirschke kicked the winning extra point.

Harris also threw 2 yards to Bob Klein for a TD while Chargers safety Clarence Durin started on defense with three interceptions and a fumble recovery.

Steve Grogan passed for touchdowns of 11 yards to Darrel Stingley, 52 yards to Stanley Morgan and 4 yards to Don Hasselback in the Patriots' victory over the Jets. In all, Grogan hit 16 of 23 passes for 228 yards with Stingley catching eight of them for 121.

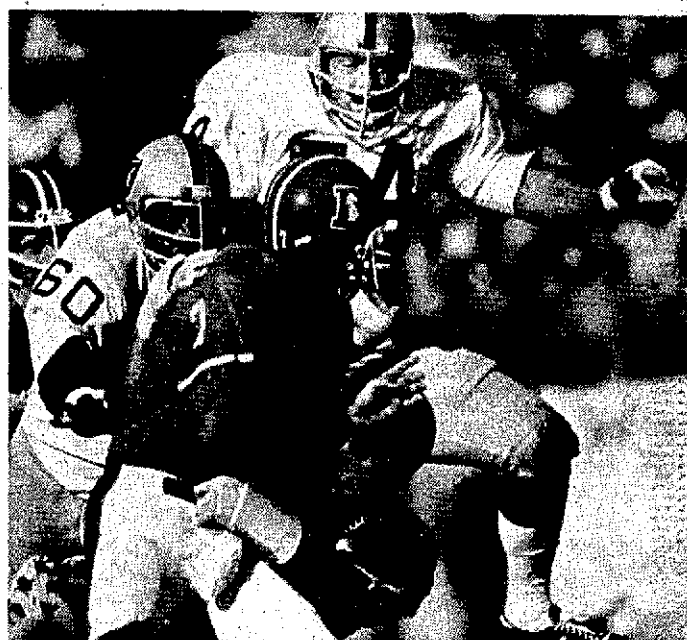

Coach Allen asked Joe Theismann to take over for Billy Kilmer and wake up Washington's slumbering offense against Philadelphia. And, as the coach later decided: "He did everything we asked of him, and more." What he did was team with Jean Yaggett on a pair of 15-yard TD passes in the first period for a lead Washington never relinquished.

Cleveland, first in the AFC Central Division, got 153 yards rushing from Greg Pruitt — 78 on a TD pass — and three field goals from Don Cuckroft in the rout of Kansas City.

"I think that's probably the best over-all game we've played in the three years I've been here," Coach Forrest Gregg said. "I'd have to say — I would have to finally admit — that the team is where I want it to be."

Fran Tarkenton, who had labored for Minnesota to acquire unhappy tight end Bob Tucker from the Giants, repaid the Vikings in the fourth period with a 6-yard touchdown pass to his new teammate to beat Atlanta.

Ken Anderson, who replaced ineffective John Reaves at quarterback for Cincinnati in the second period, marched the Bengals 58 yards in 10 plays with the fifth-period kickoff, then Chris Bahr kicked the 22-yard field goal that beat the Oilers with 5:51 gone in sudden death.

Payton Pounds Packers
Ties Sayers' 205-Yard Rushing Record

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Walter Payton made a bold promise to injured Roland Harper, his favorite blocking back, and fulfilled it with one of the most spectacular rushing efforts in National Football League history.

"When Roland was hurt, I promised him I'd get 100 yards for him and 100 for me. That's why I asked coach (Jack) Pardee to let me back in when I found out I was just under 200," said Payton, the Chicago Bears' brilliant third-year runner.

Pardee relented, and Payton came back off the bench to punch out eight yards over Green Bay's left side with 11:05 to play Sunday. That gave Payton 205 yards for the game, tying Gale Sayers' single game club record set here in 1968, and boosted his NFL leading rushing total for the season to 858.

Pardee then lifted Payton for the rest of the game, but he could afford that. Payton already had scored touchdowns on runs of six and one yards and set up a three-yard touchdown run by Johnny Musso, Harper's replacement, as the Bears, averaging 6.9 yards per rush, swamped the Packers 26-0.

Harper suffered a knee sprain of undetermined severity in the first quarter, and Pardee said he didn't let Payton try to break Sayers' record for fear of further injuries.

"At that point, with 10½ minutes left, Walter was more important to us next week," Pardee said. "He wanted to go back in to go over 200, and I sent him in for that series. Then he mentioned it (Sayers' record) later, but I wouldn't send him back. He talked me into it once, but not twice."

However, Payton said it was not he but his teammates who asked that he be allowed to try to break Sayers' record.

"Our linemen asked, but I didn't," he said. "I didn't want to break Sayers' record because Sayers is a super guy. What's a record? I just wanted to win the game."

Unbeaten Cowboys
Embarrass Lions

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, the National Football League's only unbeaten team, made just one mistake Sunday in a 37-0 mauling of the Detroit Lions and it occurred at half-time.

Former All-Pro linebacker Chuck Howley was riding in a convertible after his induction into the Cowboy Ring of Honor and Roger Staubach flipped him a shovel pass. Howley dropped it.

There was a giant roar of low-key self after the milestone victory.

"It feels good, but of course 7-0 doesn't mean anything unless you win it (the division)," said Landry. "The stretch run is coming up. The second half will be the toughest. We get St. Louis on Monday night, Washington, Pittsburgh and Denver."

"The more you win the more the pressure builds on you. We're not a solid football team yet. We played outstanding defense but we need to be more consistent on offense."

Staubach threw three touchdown passes — 14 yards to tight end Billy Joe DuPree, 18 yards to Scott Laidlaw and 36 inches to Dallas' other tight end, Jay Soldi.

Herrera kicked field goals of 21, 45, and 30 yards and rookie Larry Brinson of Florida scored his first professional touchdown on a 20-yard run.

Detroit Coach Tommy Hudspeth, whose team dropped to a 3-4 record and two games behind Minnesota in the National Conference Central Division, said, "I don't have much to say, gentlemen. All I can say is that Dallas is a tremendous football team."

Starting Linn quarterback Greg Landry said, "What can I say? They could do anything they wanted to do."

Reed concurred, moaning, "They were doing everything right ... that's all."

Defensive back Lem Barney of the Lions sounded like a Cowboy fan club member.

Barney said "I've always admired Dallas. I had aspirations of being drafted by them. They have one of the finest personnel departments and drafts in the country."

"They won't go after a Rolls Royce and expect to pay Cadillac prices."

Detroit tackle Doug English said of Dallas, now owning a three-game lead over Washington and St. Louis in the NFC East, "They made no mistakes."

Former Cowboy All-Pro defensive tackle Bob Lilly, who has seen all the Dallas teams, said, "I think they'll go all the way this year if they continue to improve. I don't think anybody in our division can beat them."

Martin added a note of caution: "We can't think we're super or we won't get to the Super Bowl."

But for another Sunday the Cowboys were good enough to remain unbeaten, a statement

PAYTON POWER: Chicago Bears' Walter Payton (34) is hauled down by Green Bay Packers' Johnnie Gray (24) after picking up eight yards in the fourth quarter of Sunday's game in Green Bay. Payton, the NFL's leading rusher, ran for 205 yards, tied a club record and scored two TD's in the Bears' 26-0 win over the Packers. (AP Wirephoto)

U-M Ground Game
Has Bo Concerned

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Are Michigan's days of running the football numbered?

If they're not, at least opponents have forced Wolverines' coach Bo Schembechler into thinking "pass" more and more.

Michigan simply doesn't have the awesome ground game for which it has become noted during Schembechler's nine-year tenure.

Iowa, like victorians Minnesota a week earlier, refused to cave in to Michigan's ground game Saturday. However, the Hawkeyes wound up succumbing to the passing of Rick Leach and fell 24-6 in the Big Ten homecoming encounter at Michigan Stadium.

"I'm not satisfied with the way we're moving the ball," conceded Schembechler, whose team is 7-1 overall and 4-1 in the conference. "But I am satisfied to get the win because we need to get our confidence back."

Iowa coach Bob Cummings, whose Hawkeyes fell to 3-5 overall and 2-4 in the league, said: "I thought we played a great game. ... We're not very far from being a good team. I can't think of any other team in the country I'd rather coach than this one. They're a great bunch of kids and I'm awfully proud of them."

Last season in 12 games Michigan, which was 10-2, accumulated 4,144 yards rushing and 1,016 through the air. Through eight games this year the Wolverines' rushing total is 2,088, about half of last season's figure. They've gained 853 yards through the air — just 163 yards short of their 1976 figure.

In losing 16-0 to Minnesota, Michigan gained just 80 yards rushing compared with 122 passing. Against Iowa the Wolverines managed just 208 ground yards, but Leach completed nine of 12 passes for 302 yards.

Michigan has gained 324 yards through the air the last two games and just 288 on the ground.

"Our offense still concerns me," Schembechler said. "We are stopping ourselves a lot with broken plays, blocking breakdown and poor execution."

Leach was the difference. He first three touchdowns passes to equal a Michigan single game record reached seven times previously, the last being Dick Vidner's three-TD pass game in 1966 against Minnesota.

Leach raised his career touchdown pass total to 25, two more than the old Maize and Blue record owned since 1947 by Bob Chappuis.

"He bailed them out time and time again," Cummings said of Leach.

Iowa nearly nailed Leach for a loss on the third play of the game. But the junior from Flint scrambled and flipped a screen pass to fullback Russell Davis, who sprinted the last 35 yards for a 63-yard TD. Linebacker Tim Rusk was the pass covering victim, however, he was outstanding overall with 15 solo tackles.

The other Leach TD losses were 6 yards to tight end Gene Johnson in the second quarter and 32 to wide receiver Rick White in the third.

Iowa drove 90 yards in 21 plays in the final quarter to get its touchdown on a 1-yard quarterback sneak by Tom McLaughlin — who was tackled by Don Tedesco in the end zone for a safety later in the period.

Spartans Smash Illini, 49-20

Fun Returns To MSU Football

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer
EAST LANSING — Fun returned to Michigan State football here Saturday.

Sure, a large number of Spartan alumni were among the crowd of 70,589 fans at Spartan Stadium. And sure, it was Michigan State's Homecoming. But most importantly, the Spartans won...and won convincingly. The scoreboard read, Michigan State 49, Illinois 20. But the game was not even that close.

The Spartans scored seven of the first eight times it touched the ball and didn't have to punt until only 11:30 remained in the game.

Statistics

	MSU	Illini
First Downs	28-217	10-417
Net Yards	417	107
Passing Yards	286	246
Rushing Yards	131	81
Fumbles	4-13-0	2-4-0
Punts	1-1	1-0
Fumbles lost	1-1	1-1
Penalties-yards	5-35	1-15

There's no question that this was the best offensive output we've had (this season)," Michigan State coach Darryl Rogers admitted. "We were able to control the offensive line of scrimmage and had a good combination of running and passing. It was just an outstanding effort."

The offensive line was unquestionably good, helping the Spartans roll up 417 yards rushing and 31 first downs.

The line opened huge holes, making all 10 running backs used by Rogers look good. The running game was so impressive that Michigan State lost yardage just once in 60 rushing plays.

"We definitely felt we had to establish a running attack," Rogers said. "That helped us a great deal. (Ed) Smith directed the attack exceptionally well."

Smith was superb in the controls, throwing timely passes to help the running game. The junior signal caller completed eight of 13 tosses for 107 yards.

Bruce Reeves, a freshman who had carried the ball just six times before Saturday, tallied 119 yards in 26 carries and scored three touchdowns. The 5-10, 172-pound speedster went over from the nine and twice from the two.

But Reeves wasn't the only running standout. Fullback Jim Farley gained 99 yards in 13 carries and scored on an 11-yard run. Tailback Leroy McGee had 76 yards in 14 totes and dove over from the one. Fullback Alonzo Middleton added 63 yards on just eight efforts, one of which was a 10-yard TD run.

"Some weeks things just fall into place," Rogers said. "Some weeks they don't. Every coach would like to go out and dominate the other team every week, but it just doesn't happen that way."

"At no time did we ever feel that this was going to be this type of game. Illinois had just beaten Purdue (29-22) and Indiana (21-7) and we had trouble with both of them."

Though Rogers refused to dwell on it, the victory was a key one in the Spartan rebuilding program. The win upped Michigan State's Big Ten record to 3-1-1 and overall slate to 4-3-1. The Spartans need only to win two of their last three games to clinch third place and a winning season.

Dwaglac's Edgar Wilson scored the other MSU touchdown, catching a 14-yard pass from Smith. And Wilson believes his team has even set its sights above third place.

"Everyone knows we have a chance of finishing second," he says. "All we have to do is win the rest of our games and have Ohio State beat Michigan."

Wilson's two pass receptions Saturday give him 18 for the year, tops on the team. Wilson is still bothered by a hip pointer when he has to reach high for a pass, but the former Class B All-Stater is just happy to contribute.

"I'm very pleased with the way I've come along this year," he said. "I thought I would contribute some, but I didn't think I'd be starting or tied for the team lead in receptions."

"It's been a lot of fun. I've learned a lot, but the big thing is the way the guys have accepted me as a part of the team."

This is Wilson's first year of football after four years with the basketball team.

Michigan State scored on drives of 73, 71, 83, 64 and 49 yards in the first half. The clock stalled the sixth Spartan drive at the Illinois 41.

With a first- and 10- and two seconds left in the half, Hans Nielsen attempted a 58-yard field goal. But the try was short, leaving the Spartans with a 35-7 halftime edge.

Illinois' only first-half points came on a 11-yard record 86-yard kickoff return by James Coleman. It was the only Tom Birney kickoff that Illinois was able to run back all day.

By halftime, Michigan State had rolled up 20 first downs and 367 yards, while limiting Illinois to just three first downs and 86 yards.

"We weren't ready to play," Illinois coach Gary Moeller said. "Either that or we're no good. I thought it would be a good game, but we didn't show up. We didn't have a chance to get momentum. We never stopped them."

Illinois, now 3-5 for the season and 2-3 in Big Ten play, also got touchdowns from Virgil Carter (10-yard run) and Kim McAvoy (one-yard run).

Colorado College and Minnesota are the league's only two unbeaten teams after one weekend of regular season play. Colorado swept its series from Notre Dame, 4-2 and 6-4, while the Gophers beat Minnesota-Duluth twice, 5-2 and 32.

In Saturday's game at Colorado Springs, freshman goalie Tom Frame stopped 48 shots to help preserve the Tigers' 8-4 victory. Dean Magee's goal at 8:11 of the second period snapped a 1-1 tie and gave Colorado a lead it never relinquished.

Flashy Irish Sink Navy With Montana's Passing

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Coach Dan Devine may have been the author, but quarterback Joe Montana was the hero Saturday as fifth-ranked Notre Dame unveiled the latest chapter in its best-selling saga on how to remold a football image.

Devine, who admitted he was a bit worried about an emotional letdown after the Irish surprised Southern California a week earlier, continued to use a more flashy brand of football against Navy.

The Irish walked all over the Middles 43-10, with Montana's passing doing most of the damage. The junior quarterback completed 11 passes for a career-high 260 yards and one touchdown and scored another touchdown himself.

"It was tough to come down to earth after last week," Devine said. "I was concerned about a letdown, not only for the team but for the coaches as well. As the week went on, everyone was still talking about Southern California."

The Irish switched from their usual blue jerseys to green against the Trojans and blew them out 49-19 with a new free-wheeling offense directed by Montana.

Against Navy, still wearing green, the first Notre Dame play was a 48-yard pass from Montana to Kris Haines at the Middles' 3-yard line. The Irish failed to score on that drive, but it set the tone for the entire game.

"There's no question that Notre Dame is a better team than they were last year," said Navy Coach George Welsh. They are a much stronger team this year and are more physical."

Despite the size and weight advantage, Notre Dame's attack was one of finesse rather than the methodical ground game that Devine has usually used. That first Montana pass to Haines resulted from a brainstorm by Devine.

"It was a hunch I got this morning at breakfast," the Irish coach said. "Sometimes when you have a low profile you can surprise people with a play like that."

"However, our passing attack has been getting better every week and I think we now have a very well balanced offense."

It was the Navy defense that toughened up near the goal line that kept the score as close as it was. The Irish twice were repelled from the Navy 1-yard line in the first quarter and drove inside the Middle 20 three times in the second period before settling for field goals of 34, 24 and 32 yards by Dave Reeve.

"We beat a very tough Navy team," Devine said. "They were quick and agile as they usually are."

Notre Dame got one touchdown on a 49-yard run by Jerome Heavens, then blew it open in the second half on Montana's 1-yard sneak, a 7-yard pass to Dave Mitchell, a 58-yard run by Jim Stone and a 50-yard interception return by Leroy Leopold.

"Navy gambled quite a bit on defense and put a lot of pressure on our passer and runners from time to time," Devine said. "I won't try to tell you this win was a gem, but it was a darned good win for us."

Gymnats Take Delta Class III Title

SAGINAW — The Southwestern Michigan Gymnats finished first in one class and second in another in the Delta Academy of Gymnastics Invitational here Saturday.

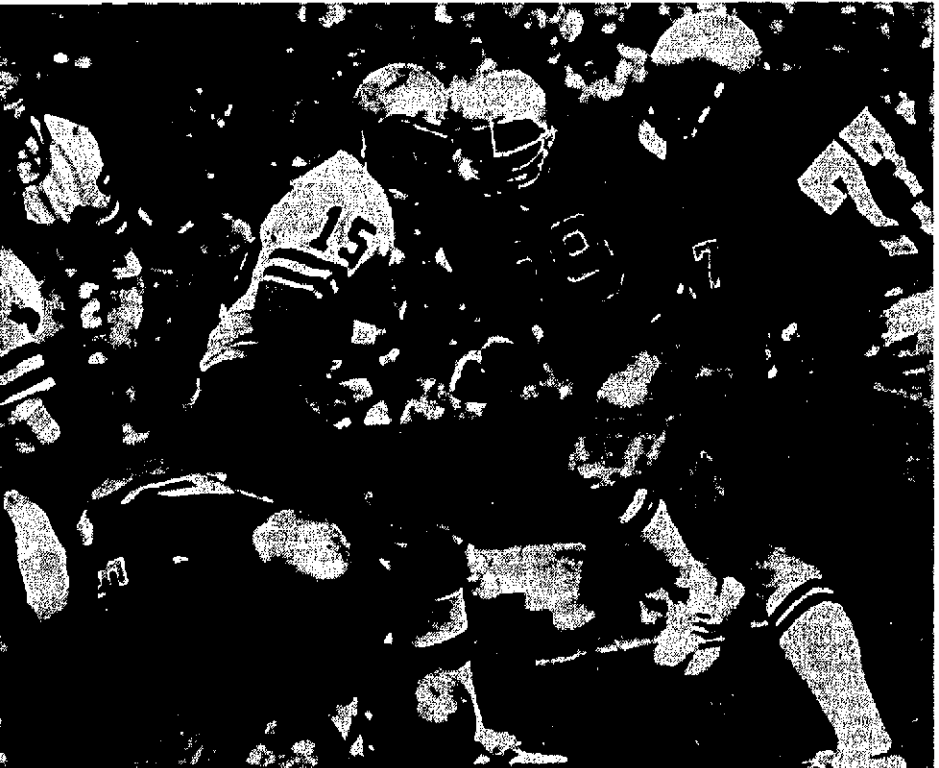

The Gymnats wound up first in Class III and second in Class II. The local team did not have enough participants to qualify for the Class I title. The Gymnats had just two and six are needed.

Katie Melligan was fourth in all-around in Class III. Melligan was fifth on uneven bars, sixth on the balance beam, sixth in vault and eighth on floor exercises. Mary Selmer was first on vault.

In Class II, Donna Clark was the top finisher for the Gymnats with an eighth place in all-around. Clark was 10th on uneven bars, eighth on balance beam and tied for fifth in vault.

SURROUNDED: Navy quarterback Bob Leszczynski (15) has nowhere to go as Notre Dame's Bob Golic (55) hits him from behind and Ross Browner (89) and Mike Calhoun move in for the sack and a four-yard loss during the second quarter of Saturday's game at Notre Dame. Notre Dame won the game easily 43-10 to protect its No. 5 ranking in the latest Associated Press poll. (AP Wirephoto)

Lakers Survive Galien Passes For League Title

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Lake Michigan Catholic survived an aerial bombardment Saturday night to capture the outright Red Arrow Conference football championship.

The undefeated Lakers got the scare of their lives from pass-happy Galien but managed to hang on for a hard-fought 26-22 triumph at Dickinson Stadium.

The win gave Terry Rose's charges a perfect 7-0 league record and an overall record of 8-0. Catholic can wrap up its first perfect season in history Saturday night with a victory over River Valley.

"I'm really thrilled for the kids with the outright championship," remarked Rose.

"That was the first goal they set for the season. The second goal is an undefeated season. And we can accomplish that Saturday."

Determined Galien almost put 3-4 league mark and a tie with Hartford for fourth place, spotted Catholic a 26-0 lead after the first 18 minutes of Laker-dominated action.

But then the Gaels settled down while quarterback Matt Koziel tossed the ball up. Koziel riddled the Laker secondary for 218 yards and two touchdowns while Galien amassed a total of 223 yards in the air on 13 of 34 attempts. Jerry Woodrick was Koziel's favorite target with four snafes for 153 yards, which included a 66-yard TD bomb.

"Matt just did a terrific job of passing," lauded Rose. "In the second half he started rolling out and our ends couldn't contain him. I thought we had a definite mental letdown in the second half, especially on defense. We just couldn't get continually fired up then after a high-pitched first half.

"Tony Yonto does a heck of a job with those kids. They have a lot of heart. They showed a lot of spunk. They're a young team and they'll be heard from in the next few years."

The Lakers struck for 13 points in each of the first two quarters. Galien fumbled on its first play from scrimmage with Tom Dumont landing on the ball at the Gael 12. Phil Banks sprinted in the end zone from six yards for the initial score.

John Spear added another tally on a 34-yard jaunt in the opening period. Banks then went up the middle for 85 yards to pay dirt early in the second stanza. Mike Masini, who drew praise from Rose for his fine signal-calling, then closed the Laker quick-strikes with a nirth of 25 yards to Andy Rodez.

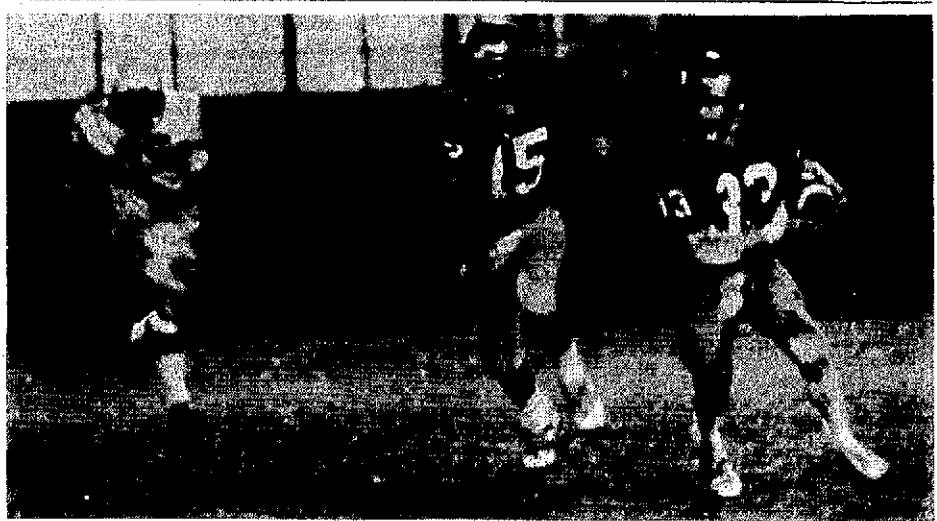

The awestruck Gaels finally got going when Marty Koziel blocked a Laker punt at the 11. Jerry Sears went the last yard in the final minute before the half.

Bear Bemoans Pass Defense After Huge 'Bama Win

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
You've got to feel for Bear Bryant.

"I think they hurt us more than any team I can remember with their passing attack," the veteran Alabama coach said following Saturday night's meeting with Mississippi State. "We obviously need a lot of work on pass defense."

And now would anyone care to guess what some Alabama lost by? What's that, you say, they won 37-7? What about it, Bear?

"Well, a couple of times they had a guy open for a touchdown and didn't get it to him."

Oh.

When second-ranked Alabama wasn't allowing Mississippi State to pass for 227 yards, the Crimson Tide's fleet and deep corps of runners were rushing for 311 yards, starting with Tony Nathan's 59-yard touchdown gallop in the first period.

The victory kept 'Bama atop the Southeastern Conference with a 4-0 record to 3-0 for both seventh-ranked Kentucky, which blanked Virginia Tech 32-0, and unheralded Auburn, which upset No. 18 Florida 20-14.

Alabama is the odds-on favorite to represent the SEC in the Sugar Bowl — Kentucky is ineligible — but Bryant has other things on his mind first.

"I haven't thought about it at all," he said. "I've got enough to worry about LSU next week."

Yup, you've got to feel for Bear Bryant.

Meanwhile, top-rated Texas slugged No. 14 Texas Tech 26-0, third-ranked Ohio State battered Wisconsin 42-0, No. 4 Oklahoma trounced Kansas State 42-7, fifth-ranked Notre Dame crushed Navy 43-10, sixth-ranked Michigan whipped Iowa 23-6, eighth-ranked Arkansas downed Rice 30-7, No. 9 Penn State mauled Miami of Florida 49-7 and No. 10 Southern Cal bowed to California 17-14.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 Texas A&M outscored Southern Methodist 38-21, No. 12 Nebraska dumped Oklahoma State 31-14, No. 13 Pitt creamed Tulane 48-0, Missouri upset No. 15 Colorado 24-14, No. 16 Clemson defeated Wake Forest 28-0, No. 17 Brigham Young beat Arizona 34-14, Indiana shocked No. 19 Minnesota 34-22 and No. 20 Florida State turned back North Texas State 35-14.

Texas used a 57-yard pass play from Randy McEachern to Olympic sprinter Johnny "Lam" Jones, two touchdowns by Johnny "Hum" Jones and field goals of 40 and 35 yards by Russell Erxleben to turn back Texas Tech. Earl Campbell didn't score but rushed for 118 yards and moved into 12th place on the all-time NCAA list.

"That was a tough football game," said Coach Fred Akers. "I was glad to see Ham Jones running and scoring and Earl had another great day and now Houston ... they are next."

Minnesota, last week's 18-0 conqueror of No. 1-ranked Michigan, had a short stay in the Top Twenty. The Golden Gophers made it to the No. 19 spot last week but Indiana took care of that with fourth-quarter touchdown runs by Scott Arnett, Ric Enis and Tony D'Orazio.

"There's always a letdown after a game like last week's," said Minny Coach Cal Stoll. "We wanted to play, but we were just going through the motions."

Another newcomer to the rankings was Florida State and the surprising Seminoles undoubtedly will stay there after boosting their record to 6-1 by trimming North Texas State, which also came into the game with just one defeat.

The score was tied 7-7 but Ivory Joe Hunter returned an interception 18 yards late in the second period for a touchdown and Willie Jones recovered a North Texas fumble in the end zone 44 seconds later as Florida State nailed down its first winning season in five years.

Meanwhile, nose guard Ron Simmons, only a freshman, sacked North Texas quarterback five times for 51 yards in losses.

"Ron Simmons kept making the big play," said Coach Bobby Bowden. "I never saw as many big plays as he made tonight."

But it was a disastrous weekend for the Florida Gators, another good bet to disappear from the Top Twenty. Auburn got an SEC record five field goals from Jorge Portela while sophomore Charlie Trotman passed for 177 yards and a touchdown in his first varsity start.

"I was proud of the team for sucking it up and playing hard when a lot of people had given up on us," said Coach Doug Barfield.

Ohio State came out throwing against Wisconsin and Rod Gerald heaved a 79-yard scoring bomb to Jim Harrell on the second play of the game. "We thought they were crowding us," Woody Hayes explained.

Thomas Lott scored three times as Oklahoma rushed for 483 yards and destroyed Kansas State and Joe Montana passed for 260 yards and defensive end Ross Browner set a Notre Dame career record of 285 tackles as the Fighting Irish torpedoes Navy.

Another career mark was set by Michigan quarterback Rick Leach, who tossed his 23rd, 24th and 25th touchdown passes — the three scoring airds tied a school record — as the Wolverines defeated Iowa. Two scoring passes and a 45-yard TD run by Derrick Rainey paced Kentucky over Virginia Tech and Michael Forrest scored twice to lead Arkansas over Rice.

Miami of Florida boosted the nation's No. 1 pass defense but Penn State riddled it for 232 yards — 192 by Chuck Fusina, who threw 36 yards to Ed Guthrie and 72 to Scott Fitzkee for touchdowns.

California dedicated its game against Southern Cal to the memory of Joe Roth, last year's quarterback, who died of cancer. The Bears then used short runs by Paul Jones and Charlie Young and Jim Breech's field goal to hand the Trojans their first Pac-8 setback in two seasons.

"We're a very much uplight team right now," said USC Coach John Robinson. "But we're still in the Rose Bowl race. We're 3-1, and if we win the rest of our games we'll go to the Rose Bowl."

It was time for nostalgia at West Point, where Army walloped Holy Cross 48-7, with its three Heisman Trophy winners — Doc Blanchard (1945), Glenn Davis (1946) and Pete Dawkins (1950) — on hand for special halftime ceremonies.

The highlight was a school record 87-yard gallop by Greg King, who rushed for 212 yards on 18 carries.

Nuclear Agency Ponders 50,000-Year Problem

By STAN BENJAMIN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is studying whether it needs tougher rules to deal with worn-out nuclear power plants, facilities which would remain radioactive for more than 50,000 years after their shutdown.

The NRC and its predecessor, the Atomic Energy Commission, already have licensed 67 nuclear powerplants for commercial operations and have authorized construction of 77 more.

None of those powerplants has yet run through its useful lifetime, considered by the nuclear industry and the NRC to be around 40 years.

But when they do, their power-generating innards will be left dangerously radioactive from years of exposure to the energy bursts of splitting atoms.

And they will stay "hot" and hazardous for periods of time that make human generations seem like mere instants.

The nuclear industry's chief expert in this field testified last month that it would take 51,350 years for the carbon-14 radioactivity created in one kind of nuclear plant, gas-cooled, to decay "to acceptably low levels."

The expert, William J. Manion, a division president of Nuclear Energy Services, Inc., testified it would take between 234,000 and 505,000 years for the acceptable decay of nickel-59 radioactivity in water-cooled reactors, the kind already in general use.

It was Manion who directed a study published in November 1976 for the Atomic Industrial Forum, the nuclear industry trade organization, which estimated the costs of keeping these "hot" powerplants isolated from the public and the environment.

Basically, Manion's study identified two ways of doing this: either tear down the radioactive powerplant immediately, with careful and costly protection of workers and the public, or seal the plant for about a century, until the radioactivity has cooled off enough to make dismantling easier and cheaper.

In either case, the radioactive parts would eventually be buried someplace where it is hoped they would remain isolated and undisturbed for the rest of the 51,000 to 505,000 years their significant radioactivity would last.

Manion told a House subcommittee that "mothballing" a powerplant for 100 years — locking it up and posting 24-hour guards — and then burying its radioactive parts would cost up to $29.7 million.

"Entombing" the plant — sealing it with concrete and dispensing with around-the-clock guards — might cost around $23 million, including disposal of the radioactive parts after 100 years.

Immediate dismantling and burial of the radioactive parts would require a large initial investment, but eliminate the expenses of guarding and maintenance for a century, and would cost somewhere between $25 million and $38 million, Manion estimated.

Depending on the type of reactor, he said, it could cost an additional $7 million to $15 million to tear down an obsolete plant completely, including the portions which are not radioactive.

Manion's estimates did not consider the added cost of tying up money that could be used more productively for something else during the many years it would take to "decommission" a plant and bury it once and for all. Nor did it include the effects of inflation.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, however, has used the industry's estimates to calculate "that decommissioning costs add very little (probably less than one per cent) to the cost of generating electricity."

As a result of that opinion, the NRC has not been particularly concerned about requiring specific financial arrangements by the companies to guarantee eventual decommissioning.

Testifying before the same hearing as Manion, Clifford V. Smith, Jr., director of the NRC Office of Nuclear Materials Safety and Safeguards, explained that the commission does not require specific plans or funds for future decommissioning when it authorizes a new nuclear powerplant.

The NRC, he said, "must be satisfied that feasible decommissioning alternatives do exist and that the applicant possesses or has the capability to provide the necessary funds to complete the task."

This means the company building the plant must show it can pay for disposing of the plant 40 years, or maybe 140 years, later.

Many corporations don't last that long. A U.S. manual lists some 98,000 New York-registered corporations whose stock has become worthless since 1938 and nearly 71,000 Delaware corporations whose stock has collapsed since 1930.

Bad Letter To Omit

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Raleigh attorney Gerald Bass always wanted to receive a letter from a president. But the note he got this week from former President Gerald R. Ford left something to be desired. Bass's name was misspelled throughout the plea to support U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., in his re-election bid next year. The "B" in Bass was left out. "The kicker was the last sentence," Bass said, laughing. "It said: 'With kindest regards, Mr. A-'. I am sincerely, Gerald R. Ford.'" Bass, a Democrat, said he probably wouldn't be supporting the Republican Helms anyway.

Lawmakers Settle Back Into Slow 'N Easy Pace

By MALCOLM JOHNSON

Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — After a flurry of activity, the Legislature is settling back into the leisurely pace it set early this year when it spent months on a few important issues.

The only major item before the Senate this week — cut to three days because of Halloween — is a bill dropping the state's ban on discussing birth control in sex education classes.

The big issue before the House, meanwhile, is legislation restricting cave-dropping.

The Senate especially has become lethargic, with most action focusing on bills which already have cleared the House. Even when it buckles down to work, the 38-man Senate looks drowsy compared to the often frantic atmosphere in the 110-member House.

Meanwhile, issues long tagged as major jobs have seen little work in either chamber, with the halfway mark of the 1977-78 session approaching. Still dormant are a transportation package, wetlands protection, land use, welfare reform, school finance and changes in worker's compensation and product liability.

With a campaign year coming up, complicated or controversial items are even more apt to be put aside.

Business has not ground to a complete halt, however. The Senate, for example, has in the past few weeks approved bills outlawing redlining, revamping the unemployment compensation fund, buying a new prison and revising the state's business tax.

The House has cleared measures to regulate pornography and to restrict bail for "career criminals." And behind-the-scenes negotiations are underway on several issues in both chambers.

But the Senate is developing quite a backlog of House-passed legislation — pornography, bail, a revised health code, protection for car buyers and tougher heroin penalties. That is because most important legislation is initiated in the House, where it is more likely to get a vigorous, thorough debate without being shelved.

And the Senate has done little with some key bills introduced by its own members — regulating lobbyists and electronic fund systems, revising criminal sentencing and changing public employee strike laws.

It is not only the Senate's results but its procedures which produce its glacier-like image. With fewer members splitting their time among 16 committees, they take longer and produce less than the House.

On the floor, even major legislation often gets only perfunctory debate, and even innocuous bills suffer lengthy delays while members take their time assessing them, conferring and gathering information.

Yank's Dance Wows Arabs

By ERIC NEWHOUSE

Associated Press Writer

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Rosemarie Park went to Egypt to study with the world's greatest bellies and found hers is one.

"It was a finco," the shapely blonde said in an interview. "The purpose of the tour was to learn authentic Middle Eastern belly dancing, but the people who set up the tour didn't arrange any dance seminars so we never had a lesson anywhere."

"But it had been advertised that we would be in some of the clubs and that we would perform. So we did."

And that's how Mrs. Park, a church-going lady with a young son, found herself dancing on tables in a tent in the Sahara, surrounded by a cast that could have been out of a Rudolph Valentino film.

"They sat us down at a little bitty table and gave us dinner and a lot of wine," she said. "Then after the show, the emcee reached down, grabbed my hand, pulled me onto the stage, and asked me to belly dance."

"Well, I was right near the edge of the stage, and someone pulled me onto one of the tables and they pulled me from table to table."

"It was quite an experience," she said, "surrounded by people in Arab dress with a headscarf and others in Western clothes. It was something I'd never done before and I may never again."

Mrs. Park, a public relations official for the Hamilton County Air Pollution Control Bureau, joined 33 other American belly dancers in September for the tour, promoted by a California agency which promised luxurious accommodations at a first-class hotel.

"It was a very nice hotel — we saw it later," Mrs. Park said. "But they put us in another hotel in downtown Cairo. We were on the ninth floor and the first eight floors were condemned."

"We should have known when they wouldn't let us use the stairs."

The American belly dancers, particularly the blue-eyed blondes like Mrs. Park, quickly found they were the object of much attention.

"Some of the girls were single, and I guess they enjoyed the advances," she said. "Some of the girls were married, and I guess some of them enjoyed the advances, too."

Despite its shortcomings, Mrs. Park said, the tour was a rare opportunity to watch authentic Middle Eastern belly dancers.

"We went over to study under some of the world's greatest bellies, and we found that some of those bellies had gotten really great," she said. "Great big."

Bring Out The Buttermilk What To Do When The President Visits

By RICHARD E. MEYER

Associated Press Writer

Get some mixed nuts. He likes them for a snack. And some buttermilk. He likes a glass before bedtime.

Wake up at 6 a.m. He does. And he makes his own bed.

Be prepared to hear a lot about Amy. Like any other father, the president of the United States dotes on his blonde, 10-year-old daughter. He'll tell you all about her tree house and her dog, Grits.

And his wife. You'll hear about Rosalynn and her trip to South America.

Don't panic. He'll only stay a night.

And afterward you'll be able to organize tours for the neighbors and point to the sheets on your bed and say, "The president slept here."

Jimmy Carter has a penchant for visiting.

On three trips so far, to New England, to the South and to the Midwest, he has scorned hotels and motels, where presidents usually stay. Instead, he bunked with people he considers plain folks.

If they were, they aren't now. They're celebrities. That's one of the things that happens when the president spends the night.

Here are other things that happen — courtesy of Ed and Kay Thompson of Clinton, Mass.; Owen and Elizabeth Cooper of Yazoo City, Miss.; and Woody and Mary Diehl of Indianapolis, Ind. They have given Jimmy Carter bed and board, and they know what it's like.

If you're picked, you'll get the word a few days ahead of time. But the White House staff will ask you to keep the visit secret until Press Secretary Jody Powell announces it.

The Secret Service will send off your block.

Agents will put lights and detectors in your yard to stop intruders. They will put blackout blinds on your windows to eliminate silhouettes. If you've got a molar home, the agents will make it their headquarters.

If your laundry room is handy, like Woody Diehl's was, some of the White House staff will take it over for their base of operations.

You can depend on the Secret Service to pick the least likely room as the safest for the president to sleep in.

"It was a room upstairs that hadn't had anything done with it for years," mutters Elizabeth Cooper. "The carpet was worn. It was where the girls had stayed when they were little."

At the Diehls, Carter got the master bedroom. Woody and Mary moved out "a few personal things." Woody took some clothes out of the closet to make room. Mary put new linen on the bed.

Woody and Mary moved into the guest room.

Aides put a special phone by the president's bed. It was connected to the White House. Two other such phones were installed for his staff.

Expect about 400 calls, says Elizabeth Cooper.

You'll see the president arrive at the head of a motorcade. He's likely to carry his suitcase into the house over his shoulder.

"Once we got inside, he carried it down the hall by himself and put it away," says Woody Diehl.

Carter hugged Kay Thompson and kissed her on the cheek.

At the Coopers, the president sleeves and took off his tie. It was soaked with sweat.

Elizabeth Cooper forgot and called him Jimmy. She apologized.

"Oh, call me Jimmy," he said.

But she couldn't. The whole family called him Mr. President.

He sat at one end of Mary Diehl's sofa. She shuddered. It's the worst seat in her living room.

"He was a lot more at ease than I was," she says. "He has so many interests, he makes you feel at home. Our oldest granddaughter has a record collection. He liked that. Our youngest granddaughter is the same age as Amy. I'm interested in Indian artifacts. So's he."

The Coopers invited their grandchildren to spend the night.

Carter lifted one grandson into his arms. The 11-month-old boy looked at him sleepily. Then he perched a 4-year-old granddaughter in his lap and fed her some of his ice cream.

Mary Diehl learned he likes mixed nuts. So she had some for him. But he's easy to please. Kay Thompson put out cheese dip and crackers.

"I feel at home," Carter said.

Elizabeth Cooper promised White House aides "we would make it easy for him to be in his room by 11 p.m. At five minutes after 11 p.m., we went to bed."

But the Thompsons couldn't resist staying up without him to watch his arrival on television.

"Before we went to bed," says Woody Diehl, "Mary asked him if he'd like some milk, buttermilk or fruit."

"He said, 'I'd just like a glass of buttermilk.'"

"Well, Mary likes buttermilk, too, so she poured them each a glass. I got a little fruit yogurt out of the refrigerator. We leaned there against the kitchen counter and visited for another 10 or 20 minutes just like he was your neighbor down the road."

"I said, 'I'm usually up by 6.' He said, 'Six will be fine. You call me at 6, and I won't bother to set my alarm.'"

"At 6 in the morning, I went down the hall and knocked on the door. I said, 'Mr. President, it's 6 o'clock' — just like I used to call my hired men."

But a thought stopped Woody Diehl in his tracks. The faucets on his shower are reversed.

He added through the bedroom door: "The cold is where the hot should be and the hot is where the cold should be."

LOOKING FOR HOME: The National Park Service and the Bureau of Land Management are offering these wild burros to anyone who wants them. The "adopt-a-burro" plan began after a public outcry over shooting the burros to thin out the rapidly rising herds that were over-running public lands. (AP Wirephoto)

U.S. Burro Plan Would Make Pets Out Of Pests

government hopes to convert pests into pets through an adoption service for the wild, floppy-eared burros that are overrunning public land.

The National Park Service and Bureau of Land Management came up with an "adopt-a-burro" plan after citizens and humane society groups protested the government's efforts to thin herds by shooting the animals.

Similar to an "adopt-a-horse" plan instituted to help control the number of wild horses in the West, the newest effort is aimed at the estimated 8,000 to 10,000 pony-sized burros roaming the deserts of California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico.

The animals — once the allies of prospectors, then replaced by motorized vehicles and set free by their owners — have thrived in the desert. But they chomp on and trample on fragile vegetation, causing erosion and destroying the food supplies of other creatures, including deer and highland sheep, said Terral King of the land management bureau.

"The

program seems to be a working solution as long as we have enough people willing to take the animals," said Bob Springer, head of the agency's range division in Washington.

There is no charge for the burros, but the government insists that prospective owners pick up and transport the animals to adequate lots or fields.

One person who did so is Phil Hill, 32, owner of a service station in rural Hesperia. He recently drove out to an adoption center in the Mojave Desert to pick up a female burro named Sally and a month-old critter he called Sweetpea.

"We'll have our burros in the hometown parades, ride them on the horse trails around here and use them for pack animals up in the mountains," Hill explained. Sweetpea is to be the pet of Hill's 16-month-old son, Luke.

Park service records show that between 1924 and 1968, some 2,500 burros were shot at Grand Canyon National Park.

The park service announced a plan a year ago to wipe out all remaining burros in the Grand Canyon. The service changed its mind after it received 12,000 letters, most protesting the hunt, a spokesman said.

A court suit to halt the slaughter was filed by the Committee to Protect the Grand Canyon Burro, the American Horse Protection Association and Humane Society of the United States.

As a result, Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus has ordered that an impact statement on the burros be prepared by the end of this year.

In July, 66 burros were shot by rangers at Bandelier National Monument in New Mexico. There the animals had been trampling and destroying Indian ruins.

Adoption, however, is not yet a proven alternative to killing the animals.

Land management officials said there has been no rush to the adoption center near Baker, from which Sally and Sweetpea were obtained, or others set up from time to time in Arizona and New Mexico. Only 60 of the 321 burros rounded up for the Mojave Desert pen have been adopted, the spokesman said.

Nun Says Farmers Must Wield Power

LAWRENCE — A Wisconsin Catholic nun who is a pro-agriculture activist told a Van Buren County Farm Bureau gathering here Saturday that the farmer's greatest sin is "a non-use of power."

Sister Thomas More Bertels added that "cooperation (among farmers) is a must" if the family farm is to survive.

There are world markets for farm products, and farmers must find them, she told 150 people attending the annual Farm Bureau meeting.

With all the starving people in the world, there isn't "any over-production, but rather, under-consumption."

Sister Bertels is professor of history and director of public relations at Silver Lake College in Manitowish, Wis., and was co-founder of the Wisconsin Women for Survival of Agriculture.

Her topic Saturday night was "Cooperation or Annihilation: It's Your Choice."

She called the family farm the "last bulwark of free enterprise in this country. Who else but the farmer can lose money nine years in a row and still stay in business."

The Catholic nun, who also is involved in a number of other farm-oriented organizations in Wisconsin, said there needs to be a "fixing up" of farm-based groups to permit them the greatest exercise of powers.

Farmers need a change in attitude before they can change the system, she said, adding that the four worst words in the English language are "I have no time."

Also during the evening, State Sen. Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, received the Farm Bureau's "Distinguished Service Award" for his support of agriculture legislation, and State Rep. Bela Kennedy, R-Bangor, appealed for more farmers to write their legislators on current legislation.

Four young people were also recognized for their attendance this summer at an agriculture seminar at Albion College.

They were Kay Bodtko of Grand Junction, David Dean of Schoolcraft, Sue Field of Lawrence and Terry Shinnberry of Paw Paw.

FARM SUPPORTERS: Sister Thomas More Bertels of Manitowish, Wis., was featured speaker at Saturday night's annual meeting of Van Buren County Farm Bureau. She is flanked by State Sen. Charles O. ## Gobles Assistant Principal Named GOBLES — Charles E. Kelly has been named assistant principal of the Gobles Junior-Senior High School according to Superintendent Guy Levesee.

Kelly, 37, also assumes the duties of athletic director, Levesee said. His annual salary is $17,000. He began Oct. 25, Levesee said.

He was teaching in the Chelsea School System when he came to Gobles. He is a graduate of Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, and received his master's degree from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, where he also received an educational specialist degree.

Kelly and his wife have two children and are now living in Gobles.

Levesee said a contract was offered to Kelly by the Gobles

School Board in September and was to be effective upon Kelly obtaining his release from the Chelsea system. There was no prior announcement of the board's selection.

Michigan Eyes Bottle Deposits

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's new law banning throwaway bottles could bring about $40 million a year to the state coffers.

But the legislature will have to take action if it wants to put the money in the public treasury, officials say.

"Unless the legislature acts, the state will recover nothing," said Assistant Attorney General Irving Feldman.

The money would be raised from the bottle and can deposits that will be required when the law takes effect Dec. 3, 1978. Michigan voters approved the bill last year.

According to a story in Sunday's Detroit Free Press, deposits paid but not yet cashed in will form a $400 million

"floating bankroll."

Because not everyone will bring back the containers after paying the deposits, officials figure about 10 per cent of the deposits will never be claimed. That will leave about $40 million each year.

Officials in state government say the money belongs to the people who paid the deposits, and all or most of it should be put in the public treasury. One of those officials is Roger Rosenbloom, who writes bottle bill rules for the Liquor Control Commission.

But special interest groups, such as beverage retailers and wholesalers who opposed the bill in the first place, think differently.

Some of their representatives say the $40 million should go back to store owners or distributors to help them pay the higher costs of processing returnable bottles.

Others, including some beer and soft drink manufacturers, say some of the money should go to them to offset costs of making the new bottles.

The legislature will have to decide who gets how much before the bill goes into effect.

Decatur Council Fires Chief Ives

DECATUR — Byron Ives, Decatur police chief, was fired by the Village Council during a special session here Saturday afternoon.

Termination of Ives employment was effective starting today. The vote to relieve Ives of duty came in a 6-0 roll call. C. Blaine Rex, council president, arrived at the meeting late and missed the vote.

The council indicated it would take its time before naming a new police chief. Decatur still has two full-time officers, one part-time officer, and a juvenile officer.

The council gave no reason for Ives firing. Ives was placed on two-month leave of absence in early September.

Ives was hired as a Decatur patrolman in March, 1970, and was serving as assistant police chief in April, 1976, when former chief William Purdy was fired by the council. Ives was subsequently named chief in May, 1976. He was making $12,420 a year.

Village Clerk Harry Schmidt said the council would probably approve advertising for a new chief at its next meeting.

Both dividends are payable Dec. 1 to shareholders of record Nov. 15.

House Panel Ready For Abortion Vote

By ROB WILSON

Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — After much debate and plenty of heated emotions, a House committee is scheduled to vote this week on a bill that would cut off state Medicaid funds for abortions.

Lawmakers shy away from predicting which way the vote will go, but one thing is certain: it will be close.

"I think the bill will win or lose by only one vote," said Rep. Francis Spaulola, D-Corunna. Spaulola is vice-chairman of the House Social Services and Youth Committee which is considering the bill.

The bill itself is only 25 words long. But the issue is highly emotional and politically volatile, and committee meetings have been marked by vehement testimony from church leaders, feminists and lawmakers.

The issue is not an abortion itself — the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that most abortions are legal. The question is whether state funds should continue to be used to pay for the operations.

And while many lawmakers oppose abortions, some of them also believe poor women should get equal medical treatment under Medicaid.

The intense feelings on both sides of the issue have left legislators squirming, because they say they stand to lose some voters no matter which way the decision goes — even if they don't vote.

"The safest thing for me to do is vote one way or the other on the bill — that way I only offend one side," said Rep. Monte Gerald, D-Madison Heights, a member of the committee.

The debate has not been limited to the special interest groups which testified before the committee. Lawmakers, too, are sharply divided.

"It's hard to separate the emotionalism of the issue and the bill itself," Gerald said. "The committee members have the same feelings that other people have."

The committee erupted into open bickering over the issue last week as it neared a final vote. Democratic Rep. David Hollister of Lansing, frustrated over the refusals of church leaders to accept a compromise on the bill, said he would "get hardnosed on this issue if you're going to get hardnosed."

He made the statement after clergymen testified against abortion, and complained they also were opposed to teaching birth control in sex education classes and allowing contraceptives to be used by minors without parental consent.

"We all feel that abortion is the last alternative, and it is a horrible alternative. But we have to look at those other alternatives," Hollister said.

Hollister said he would take steps to tie the bill to measures allowing for sex education and increased availability of contraceptives — linking their fates together.

The move received little support from other committee members.

"We can't tie the bill — we have to decide it on its own merits," Gerald said. And Spaulola added that tying the bill "would probably only muddy the waters a little more. But one thing is for sure, and that's that anything can happen in that committee."

Social Security Would End 'Double Dip' For Many

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The $311 difference between a typical federal employee's retirement check and a monthly Social Security payment helped convince government workers to shun the Social Security system.

But the higher benefit was not the only difference that led federal workers to fight successfully against integration of their pension plan with Social Security.

Some federal employees already qualify for both plans, meaning they can now look forward to two checks.

And civil servants maintain their higher pension was intended. A bigger chunk of their paycheck goes to the retirement fund than is paid by those under Social Security, and career employees enter government service partly because of the promise of the higher pension. The Social Security system is going broke, however, and the federal employees are being looked at hungrily by some as a potential multi-billion dollar infusion of cash for the system.

sufficiently thought out.

No one has suggested simply substituting Social Security for civil service pensions. But the proposal did not say how the systems would be integrated, a fact that concerned many committee members.

The differences between the American families in 1978.

The civil servant leaving government service after 35 years will get about $748 a month in pension or $8,960 a year, at least part of which is taxable. The retiring private employee will draw only $437 a month or $5,245 a year in Social Security checks, which are not taxable.

If the Social Security recipient has a spouse, the check is increased by 50 per cent, $218.55 a month, making the total benefit $7,888 a year for the couple. A civil servant's pension does not increase solely because of the presence of a spouse.

The non-federal retiree may also receive a private pension.

Federal employees contribute 7 percent of their pay to their pension fund. Social Security now takes 5.85 percent of pay up to a dollar limit, but the percentage is going up.

Under both systems, the employer matches the employee contribution.

The civil service system was designed as part of the compensation for federal employees. It was to provide retirement income by itself, based on years of service and salary.

Looking at it another way, federal pensions are now designed to be roughly equal to the retirement income of a former employee of private business — which is normally Social Security plus a private pension.

Social Security was not designed as a national pension system, although some argue it has essentially become one. It is designed to provide income supplements to the elderly, the disabled and others to prevent them from becoming destitute.

Many civil servants do not want to join Social Security because they are already covered. A survey of civil service retirees in 1969 showed 43 per cent were entitled to Social Security checks.

To put all federal employees under Social Security would for a number of years. And losing that second pension could cost some future federal retirees $1,300 a year or more.

If the federal employees were brought under Social Security, the pensioners would get retirement stipends equal to the present civil service pension.

currently can earn only $3,000 a year in a job before the government begins to cut benefits, although the House has voted to lift that limit.

But the civil service retiree can get another job — paying any amount — and still retain the full pension.

Social Security recipients are eligible for all of Medicare's benefits since the program is financed by Social Security taxes.

But federal employees, who are not eligible for Social Security, are not eligible for Medicare. To retain health insurance coverage, the federal retiree must continue to pay premiums for the government supervised health insurance plan. The government also pays part of the cost for the retiree.

Some Are Now Covered By Plan

But the proposal by the House Ways and Means Committee to bring them under the Social Security umbrella was thrown out by a 388-38 vote Wednesday, partly because of civil service resistance and partly in fear that the plan was not sufficiently thought out. They feel there is no other way out," says an official of New York City's Office of Labor Relations who asked not to be quoted by name.

Other cities have been trying productivity bargaining, although urban experts hesitate to call it a trend. Most notable are contracts covering sanitation-men in Flint, Mich., police in Orange, Calif., and water meter workers in Philadelphia.

A 1976 survey by the International City Management Association showed that out of 372 cities reporting, 38 of them, or less than 10 per cent engaged in productivity bargaining. Among various methods cities say they use to get more work for their labor dollars, putting bonuses or other sweeteners in labor contracts or otherwise offering to share the fruits of productivity savings with city workers remains the least prevalent.

Sanitationmen in Flint have had productivity cash incentives in their contracts for four years and are now in the midst of renegotiation. In 1973, the city's sanitationmen demanded some sort of compensation for the growing amount of trash they had to pick up. But the city had the problem of reducing a growing burden of overtime costs. The agreement finally reached paid workers a productivity bonus of eight cents an hour if they cut overtime by 25 per cent. In addition, workers could go home after six hours if their routes were completed.

By 1975, the city was paying out about $208 a person in productivity bonuses, and was adding $2,000 to the bonus pool for each person it could eliminate from the payroll through attrition. And by 1976, workers were allowed to go home after only five hours if their routes were completed.

But this year, the unions, the city government and Flint citizens have taken a harder look at the productivity incentive idea, with no resolution so far. On the bargaining table are further refinements, notably a "complaint factor."

"Citizens were complaining that workers rush through their work to go home earlier," says Rita Patton, director of labor relations for Flint. Thus the city is trying to reduce a worker's bonus by a certain percentage based on any citizen complaints about his work.

On the positive side, the city has found it has reduced overtime hours from 8,700 in fiscal 1973 to only 45 hours in fiscal 1975, according to a study of Flint's program by the Urban Institute published last April. There has been difficulty in the union ranks. Workers covered by the productivity agreements were working side by side with those who didn't have any. Sanitationmen were allowed to go home early each day, while workers who maintained garbage trucks felt resentful.

The approximately 60 sanitationmen covered by the productivity agreement belong to Local 1800 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees — AFSCME — representing approximately 1,000 Flint employees. The local's president, Jack Johnson, said in an interview he opposed productivity agreements for other workers he represents because such agreements seem to go hand in hand with fewer city jobs.

While urbanologists haven't given up on the idea of contract incentives for increased city labor productivity, Sam Zisora, director of the Labor-Management Relations Service of the National League of Cities cites five problems cities have found with the idea:

—City managers are concerned that putting productivity on the bargaining table robs them of management prerogatives.

—Productivity bargaining gets mixed up with other bargaining issues and can lead to costly or unwise trade-offs.

—Productivity formulas that reward work improvements can self-destruct. In Orange, Calif., for instance, police who had agreed to a contract that rewarded lower crime rates with bonuses found that crime rates can only be improved so much.

—Since productivity incentives usually apply to only one unit in a given city agency, it can often create envy among other workers.

—Finally, in a time of urban financial stress, many taxpayers resent paying bonuses for work they feel city employees should be doing anyway.

Federal Workers Oppose System

But this would be less than a regular federal pension plus Social Security.

There are numerous other differences between civil service retirement and Social Security.

The Social Security recipient deprive many civil servants of the so-called "double dip" — federal pension and Social Security payments.

To qualify for both, the worker must at some point have held a private job and have contributed to Social Security for a number of years. And losing that second pension could

Productivity Is Municipal Labor Bargaining Issue

By LEE MITGANG
AP Urban Affairs Writer

As labor costs for city governments continue to soar, some are turning to the idea of offering more money in city contracts for better worker productivity.

A relative handful of cities have experimented with the idea for at least five years, but now that New York City has adopted the practice, productivity is becoming a more common bargaining chip for other cities trying to hold down labor costs.

The theory is fine for city governments because it can produce faster, if not always better, work from its employees, cut down on overtime costs, and pave the way for job reductions. But in some of the cities it has been tried in, it has also created jealousy between workers who get productivity bonuses and shorter workdays and those who don't.

And generally, many union leaders fear that productivity is just a nice word for fewer workers.

For New York, there was practically no choice. Because of the city's severe financial bind, unions have been forced to accept the idea that any wage or cost of living increase will have to be funded by productivity savings. It is almost certain that any new union contracts resulting from negotiations set for January and April next year will include many productive features.

"The unions have accepted it. They feel there is no other way out," says an official of New York City's Office of Labor Relations who asked not to be quoted by name.

Tires Are Going Metric, Too

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMIDT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new way of expressing dimensions is being added to the shopping in America, representing one more step along the road to the metric system of measurement.

The change means you will see some unfamiliar lettering and numbering on the side of your tires.

Suppose, for example, the tires you now have are labeled "FR78-14."

The "F" refers to the amount of weight the tire can carry. The "R" shows the tire is a radial model. The "78" refers to the relationship between height and width, indicating the tire is 78 percent as high as it is wide, and the "14" shows the tire fits a 14-inch rim.

Generally, the closer the initial code letter is to the beginning of the alphabet, the smaller the tire and the less weight it can carry.

If you go to buy replacements for your "FR78-14" you will find the dealer offering you something marked "P205/75R14."

The "P" indicates the tire is designed for regular use on passenger cars. These are the only metrically numbered tires currently being produced, but some "T" designations — indicating temporary use spares — are expected in the market later this year.

The number "205" is the measurement of the cross section of the tire in millimeters. This is followed by a slash mark, shown here as a dash. Next comes "75," referring to the relationship of height to width rounded to the nearest 5 percent.

The "R" means radial. "B" would indicate bias belted tires and "D" would stand for diagonal or bias ply. The "14" once again shows that the tire fits a 14-inch rim. The 14 has not been converted to metrics because tire rim sizes around the world are measured in inches.

The metrically numbered tires started appearing last year on 1977 Chevrolets. More of them will be in use this year on 1978 models, mainly those produced by General Motors.

The old labeling — known as the alpha numeric system — has been in use for seven years. Complete conversion to the new system is expected to take some time because many tires already on the market or in the manufacturing and distribution pipeline are numbered in the old way. Some manufacturers say they will temporarily produce some tires with both types of numbers.

The rest of the information on the side of your tire — the load range, the maximum load limits and cold inflation, the tire ply composition and so on — will remain the same.

A new federal standard requiring labeling on such things as tread wear and resistance to damage has been proposed, but is not yet in effect.

The metric measurements being used in the new tires are not necessarily exactly equal to the old sizes and experts warn that exact interchangeability is not always possible. You may have to adjust the inflation of the tire by up to three pounds.

Most manufacturers have prepared charts showing you what to do, however, and tire dealers should be able to explain any needed adjustments.

NEW DIMENSION: Chart compares old system of labeling tires, left, with a new metric system right, which will gradually replace the old "alpha numeric system." (AP Wirephoto)

Mondale Still Campaigns Hard

WASHINGTON (AP) — This may be a quiet, nonpolitical year, but no one seems to have told Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

He has campaigned for the two Democratic gubernatorial candidates, helped fill the coffers of local party organizations, and has spoken at preliminary fund-raising parties held by Democratic members of Congress.

Mondale likes to spend as much time as possible at the White House counseling the President or preparing himself on a broad spectrum of foreign and domestic issues, but he is also trying to play a role that is more traditional for vice presidents.

So, a little time spent shaking hands at the corner of 34th Street and Sixth Avenue in Manhattan is worked into his calendar. So is a trip out to the West Coast to help Democrats running for state legislative posts.

Just look at his schedule last Thursday:

A brunch for New York State Assemblyman Arthur Eve, the Democratic mayoral candidate in Buffalo, N.Y.; a luncheon in Port Chester, N.Y., for Westchester County Executive Al Del Bello, a Democrat running for re-election; handshaking with pedestrians in Manhattan to boost the campaign of Democratic mayoral candidate Ed Koch; a reception for Irwin Landes, the Democratic candidate for Nassau County, N.Y., executive, and an evening speech for Koch.

Mondale's staff members acknowledge that he is carrying out some of the more routine political activities of the Carter administration, but they say he is doing so with no reluctance.

Instead, such activities are seen as an opportunity to "get around the country and get a handle on what is happening around the country," said Mike Berman, the vice president's counsel and one of his political advisers.

Not to be ignored is the fact that the administration naturally wants to protect the large Democratic representation in the House, Senate and governors' mansions, or the fact that its political favors won't go unnoticed.

Young Jobless Reject Minimum Wage

DETROIT (AP) — "I ain't gonna fry no chicken in some carry-out joint for no $3 an hour," says 20-year-old William Potter, one of Detroit's 37,000 unemployed black youths.

Employers say there are jobs available here. It's just that the people who need them most aren't always willing to take them, say the businessmen.

"There are jobs," said Ed Foster, manager of a hamburger restaurant. "It's just that these kids today don't want them. We're always looking for help. But we pay the minimum wage and kids today don't think that's enough. They all want $7 an hour or they won't get off their butts."

Officials estimate that 34.5 percent, or 37,000 of Detroit's black youth between 16 and 19 are unemployed. Although that is lower than the national unemployment rate for black youths, it is almost twice the rate for white teens and almost five times the rate for the nation as a whole.

Jobless blacks here say they are being held back by racial prejudice, inadequate transportation to jobs in the suburbs, strict education requirements, and an unwillingness to work for low wages.

"Hey, if I was white folk, we'd be rolling in bread," said William Jenkins, 19. "The unions don't want us, the factories don't want us, nobody wants us."

The auto industry, Detroit's largest employer of unskilled and semiskilled workers, says it is swamped with applicants lured by starting wages of $7.09 an hour and generous fringe benefits.

"While we're very aware that young people need work, I don't think people realize how much competition there is for those jobs," said Robert E. Chandler, assistant director of personnel for General Motors Cadillac Division. "Cadillac alone deals with 15 to 20 agencies trying to get us to hire certain types or groups of people. We have veterans' groups, women's groups, handicapped groups, minority groups, high schools, vocational centers and so on."
